Corey To Quit In Gilligan Shuffle Of Departments

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — State Personnel Director Paul Corey, whose job would be eliminated under a plan to combine three departments, commended Gov. John Gilligan Friday for "this forward step in improving government management."

Corey would not be affected directly if the legislature approves Gilligan's proposal to combine the functions of the Personnel, Public Works and Finance departments into a new Department of Administrative Services.

Coupled with the announcement of the streamlining plan Friday was one that Corey was resigning to become director of Selective Service for Ohio, effective April 1.

"I'm looking forward to the challenge of this position where I will be charged with the responsibility for emergency defense manpower plans," Corey said.

No More Methadone In Ohio Pharmacies

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Methadone, the inexpensive substitute for heroin, no longer is available at pharmacies, the Ohio Bureau of Drug Abuse (BUDA) announced.

In order to comply with new federal restrictions, the bureau said, methadone now is available only through drug treatment programs or from approved hospital pharmacies.

Pro Gridder Ernie Holmes Held In Shootings

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio (AP)—Pittsburgh Steelers defensive tackle Ernest Holmes will be charged Monday in connection with the shooting and wounding of a state patrol helicopter pilot, the Mahoning County sheriff's department said.

Holmes, 24, of Newton, Tex., was being held in the county jail after being arrested Friday afternoon during a four-hour manhunt in southwest Mahoning County.

Holmes' arrest capped the manhunt through a wooded section of farmland north of Salem as deputies and state patrolmen searched for a sniper who shot at several trucks and then wounded a helicopter pilot.

The pilot of the helicopter, State Patrol Sgt. Larry Myers, 36, of Columbus, was wounded in the ankle by gunfire from the ground shortly before officers surrounded Holmes, according to Sheriff's Detective William Johns.

Myers was reported in satisfactory condition at a Youngstown hospital.

A State Patrol plane, the helicopter, patrolmen and deputies from Mahoning and Columbiana counties began combing the wooded farmland near Salem late Friday morning, searching for the gunman who reportedly fired shots at trucks on nearby highways.

The manhunt began after two area motorists said they saw the driver of a light blue Cadillac fire at a semi-trailer truck and chased him at speeds of up to 90 m.p.h. south from Interstate 80 toward Salem.

Deputies said one of the Cadillac's tires blew out during the chase, but that the driver careened on, sparks shooting from the rubberless wheel as he outdistanced his pursuers. The abandoned vehicle was found just north of Salem minutes later.

Deputies said they located Holmes when the shots were fired at the helicopter, and an area resident with the searchers said two officers distracted him while others moved into position on the other side.

"This one trooper shot at him, and he seen he was a dead pigeon," said Richard Stiffler of rural Salem, who accompanied the searchers. "He gave himself up then."

Johns, who said Holmes told him he was driving back to Pittsburgh from Texas to "play basketball and get into shape," said the football player also said he was undergoing a divorce.

Steelers spokesmen in Pittsburgh expressed surprise at the report of his arrest.

Floods, Twisters Hit Wide Areas Of South

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Rivers and streams spilled over their banks into Southern lowlands today, forcing hundreds of families to seek safety on higher ground.

The evacuation began after relentless rains, bruising winds and tornadoes hammered at portions of Dixie for more than 24 hours.

Four persons were known dead, numerous others injured.

Several thousand homes in the Brainerd section of Chattanooga, Tenn., were threatened by flood waters. South Chickamauga Creek — which runs near the heavily populated, middle-class neighborhood — was expected to crest at 24 feet by noon today. Full bank stage is only about 10 feet.

As midnight neared Friday, more than 300 families along the creek were evacuated.

In Atlanta, winds were recorded at 60 miles per hour Friday afternoon, and the city received an inch of rain in one hour.

Flash flood watches or warnings were out for portions of Alabama, Georgia, Tennessee, Mississippi, the Carolinas and the Florida panhandle.

In Mississippi, federal, state and volunteer organizations were moving to help persons driven from their homes by extensive flash flooding.

An estimated 300 persons were sheltered at Grenada by the Red Cross Friday night.

Alabama Power Co. officials warned persons living near Lewis Smith Dam in Cullman County to evacuate because it was expected to overflow today.

More than 450 persons were evacuated from low-lying areas in Huntsville, Ala., Friday; but most were allowed to return to their homes Friday night. Huntsville recorded almost seven inches of rain Friday.

At least seven persons were injured in Georgia Friday when a tornado touched down in the Resaca community in Gordon County. The twister slammed across heavily traveled Interstate 75, scattering automobiles.

Tornadoes also raced across Alabama Friday, causing property damage and minor injuries. Hardest hit was Shelby County, where a twister overturned mobile homes and leveled several buildings under construction at a Pelham shopping center, about 18 miles south of Birmingham.

Heavy rains hit North Carolina Friday and early today, setting up the threat of flash floods in the mountains and central areas. One tornado was reported Friday, but it passed without causing damage or injury.

Communist Torture Bared

CLARK AIR BASE, Philippines (AP) — The Navy pilot sat on "The Stool" for 20 days.

Whenever he tried to sleep for a minute, a guard woke him up by hitting him under the nose. He couldn't even get up to relieve himself.

His Communist captors wanted an antiwar statement. Other prisoners of war had given statements willingly. He had refused. They took him to "The Stool."

He broke the 21st day, telling the Communists he would do anything they wanted.

To get statements or just as punishment, other POWs were forced to kneel on concrete floors for days. Their knees swelled up like balloons. Others were hit with rubber hoses or sandals with truck tire soles.

"You'd shoot your own mother if they wanted you to" after such brutality, a senior Air Force colonel said. He said almost every POW broke under the torture and gave the Communists what they wanted. Some died during the ordeal or shortly afterwards.

A few of the freed POWs were described as arriving at Clark still mentally scrambled from the treatment they received.

The information was leaked by high sources who talked to the men.

The authorities said the torture by the Communists was diabolical — making it hurt without it showing.

Instead of cracking a person on top of his nose, he was hit under the nose.

Illnesses and medical problems were often ignored in the camps. When they were treated, it was only after weeks or months. "The penicillin was never given when it could really help you," said one POW.

Meanwhile, sixty happy American prisoners of war left Clark Air Base for home today, and plans were being made for the departure of more on Sunday and Monday.

Three evacuation flights, carrying a total of 57 men, were scheduled to leave Sunday for Andrews Air Force Base, Md.; Scott Air Force Base, Ill.; and Travis Air Force Base, Calif. All will make refueling stops at Hickam Air Force Base, Hawaii.

The POWs who left today were from a group of 108 released by North Vietnam Wednesday. They included Navy Lt. Cmdr. John S. McCain III, 36, son of Adm. John S. McCain Jr., former commander-in-chief of U.S. Pacific Forces who directed the war in Vietnam. McCain, whose wife Carol lives in Orange Park, Fla., flew to Maxwell Air Force Base, Ala.

Bobby Joe Keesee, a civilian accused of having hijacked a small chartered plane from Thailand to North Vietnam in 1970, was aboard another flight bound for March Air Force Base, Calif.

The POWs departing on Sunday will include Air Force Col. John P. Flynn, 50, of Shalimar, Fla., the senior-ranking POW captured by the Communists, and Air Force Maj. Philip E. Smith, 38, of Roodhouse, Ill., one of two Vietnam war pilots imprisoned by China. Flynn was headed for Keesler Air Force Base, Miss., via Scott; and Smith was manifested for Scott.

Oldest U.S. Earth Satellite Marks 15th Year In Orbit

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vanguard 1, oldest and tiniest of the 565 satellites currently orbiting the earth, marks its 15th anniversary today.

In the anguished days of the early U.S. space effort, few programs went through agonies like those of Project Vanguard before the successful launch of Vanguard 1.

Veterans of the Naval Research Laboratory that launched the three-pound, grapefruit-sized spacecraft from Cape Canaveral, Fla., March 17, 1958, plan a St. Patrick's night reunion here to mark the anniversary.

President Eisenhower had announced July 29, 1955, that the United States would launch "small, unmanned earth-circling satellites" as a part of the U.S. contribution to the 1957-1958 International Geophysical Year. Naval Research Laboratory won the coveted assignment Sept. 9, 1955.

The Vanguard team had launched one test vehicle, TVO, to prove the capabilities of the launch pad and down-range stations, and another, TV-1, to test the second stage when, on Oct. 4, 1957, the Soviet Union announced it had placed an earth satellite in orbit.

Suddenly the spotlight was on the "space race with Russia."

By Nov. 3, TV-3, the first Vanguard rocket with a satellite, was on the launch pad. And on that date the Soviet Union launched Sputnik 2, its second satellite.

After numerous delays the TV-3, countdown went into its final minutes Dec. 6, 1957.

The launch vehicle thundered alive, rose hesitantly for about a foot and then shattered in a tremendous explosion.

A few weeks earlier, concerned at the Soviet advances, the Secretary of Defense had ordered the Army to go ahead with its own satellite launch attempt. Thus it was that while the Navy toiled on with its stubborn Vanguard, the Army set up its Jupiter-C vehicle and on Jan. 31, 1958—only 84 days after receiving the order to go ahead—launched into orbit the Western World's first satellite, Explorer 1.

The Navy Vanguard ordeal was not yet over. Four days after Explorer 1 went into orbit, the NRL launched TV-3 BU—the backup launch vehicle with its small satellite.

Sixty seconds after a beautiful liftoff the guidance system failed and the 72-foot rocket exploded.

The next Vanguard vehicle was TV-4, and the delays and troubles continued. On March 7 the countdown reached T minus 35 seconds, only to develop a balky disconnect switch.

Finally, on St. Patrick's day 1958, TV-4 was launched successfully and Vanguard 1 went into an orbit so stable that it is expected to stay there for about 300 more years.

Sputnik 1 fell back into the atmosphere and burned up early in January, 1958, about three months after its launch.

Sputnik 2 dropped out of orbit April 14, 1958. Explorer 1 fell back into the earth's atmosphere March 31, 1970.

Cincinnati Lawyer Expected To Be Named Head Of IRS

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Cincinnati tax lawyer Donald C. Alexander, 53, will be nominated to succeed Johnnie M. Walters as head of the Internal Revenue Service, The Cincinnati Enquirer said today.

The newspaper's Washington bureau quoted an administration source saying that President Nixon will nominate Alexander to the post.

Alexander remained unavailable today for comment.

"All I can say is that he is out of the state at the moment," said Mrs. Alexander late Friday night. His office earlier said there would be no comment. The office said Alexander was in New York City.

U.S. Sen. Robert Taft Jr., R-Ohio, recommended Alexander for the post, and Nixon administration sources said his name was under prominent consideration.

Weather

Cloudy and cold today with possibility of 1 to 2 inches of snow accumulation by evening, high 36. Cloudy and cold tonight with snow ending, low near 25. Partly cloudy and cold tomorrow, high near 35.

Alexander, a Yale graduate in 1946 and Harvard Law School in 1948, has been associated with several nationally prominent Cincinnati law firms in his career, including Taft, Stettinius and Hollister.

He is now a partner in Dinsmore, Shohl, Coates & Deupree and has specialized in tax law.

A frequent lecturer on tax laws, he has appeared before most area colleges, civic and business groups and at New York University.

Alexander was a consultant to the U.S. Treasury from 1966 to 1968 and served as vice chairman of the American Bar Association's section on taxation in 1967-68.

Alexander is a native of Pine Bluff, Ark.

He became a member of a 12-man advisory board to the Internal Revenue Service in 1969 and was a member of the tax Management Advisory Board of the Bureau of National Affairs.

Athletes Face Jail

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Two University of Cincinnati football players remained free on bond today while a judge pondered their sentences for robbing two students in a college dormitory.

Richard E. James, 21, co-captain and fullback, and Charles Britton, 20, reserve defensive player, remained on $1,000 bond each. Both are natives of Cincinnati.

Hamilton County Common Pleas Court Judge Robert V. Wood Friday ordered the probation department to compile a report on the pair before sentencing is pronounced.

The two were charged with robbery and assault to rob. Peter Williams, 19, said he was robbed by the pair May 25, 1972 in his room at Calhoun Hall.

William Schickel, 21, said he was assaulted and robbed in the same dorm May 17, 1972. James and Britton played the 1972 season while under indictment.

And So It Grows

By GEORGE HAMRICK
County Extension Agent, Agriculture
Your First Attempt at Dahlias

You can buy dahlias as seed, rooted cuttings, or dormant roots. Because dahlias are hybrids, seeds won't always produce plants with flowers like those from which the seeds were taken.

That's the reason most gardeners prefer to buy dormant roots or to plant dormant roots saved from the previous year. But, if you want to plant seed just to find out what you will come up with, horticulturists suggest you start the seeds in boxes of sandy loam soil, not more than a month before you expect the last spring frost.

Keep the soil moist and transplant seedlings outside when frost is no longer a danger. Whether you sow seeds indoors or out, cover them with only one-half inch of soil. It is also a good idea to treat the seed with a fungicide before planting.

It is best to plant seedlings in a sandy loam that is slightly acid. However, dahlias will grow successfully in most garden soils that are well drained. Pick a planting site that gets at least six hours of sun a day. The site should have good air circulation but protection from strong winds. Plants also need room to develop. Give large flowering dahlias 3 to 4 feet distance from the next nearest plant. Smaller varieties can get by on 2 feet. Place a stake directly alongside the plant at the time of planting. Your dahlia's future is at stake if you fail to do this.

Chip Off the Old Block

Many ornamental trees, flowering shrubs, roses and evergreens are easy to propagate by home methods. The offspring will have exactly the same characteristics as the parent plant.

Horticulturists say an easy home propagation method is layering. Start by working leafmold or peat and sand into the soil where you will layer the branch. Next, make a slanting cut 2 inches long on the upper side of the branch about 12 inches from the tip. Dust the cut with a rooting stimulant you can get in most garden supply stores. Then fasten the branch to the soil. Pin it down between the trunk and the cut with a wooden peg or wire wicket, or weight it down with a stone. After you pin the branch to the soil, bend the tip upright, twisting the branch as if you were turning a screwdriver one-half a turn. This opens the cut.

Next, place a second peg or pin over the branch directly at the point of the cut. Cover the pegged branch with several inches of prepared soil. Mound the soil around the upturned stem so the wound is 3 or 4 inches underground. Pack the covering soil firmly. Put a layer of straw or leaves over the layered branch and water frequently to keep the covering soil moist.

Next spring, cut the rooted branch free from the parent plant. Leave the new plant in place for 2 or 3 weeks after you cut it free. Then transplant it to another location. The 2 to 3 week recovery period gets the plant over the shock of being cut free of the parent plant.

Leaving home is hard on twigs no matter how they're bent.

Taft Votes Against Bigger Trucks, Buses

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Robert Taft Jr., R-Ohio, voted with the majority Thursday as the Senate rejected an amendment to permit larger buses and trucks on the nation's highways.

Ohio's other senator, William B. Saxbe, also a Republican, was not recorded as voting.

Food Prices Not Up As Much As It Seems

By GEORGE HAMRICK
County Extension Agent, Agriculture

A good many Americans are "up tight" about food prices. Farmers and others with agricultural interests tend to be overly defensive about food price increases and overblame other parties, particularly the "middleman." People outside of agriculture put most of the blame for inflation on food prices.

"It's time we attempt to put these conflicting impressions into some kind of perspective," said Robert E. Jacobson, extension economist at The Ohio State University, speaking at the Dairy Industry Conference held recently on the Ohio State campus.

Fact is, he said, food prices did not increase as fast as prices of other consumer goods and services until January of this year. Then, they caught up. The Consumer Price Index for January showed that retail prices in general have inflated 27.7 per cent since 1967 while food prices increased 28.6 per cent.

Why all the concern about food prices, then, if their upward trend was about the general rate of inflation? Jacobson sees three reasons.

One is that food prices have great visibility, and the continuous chatter of the supermarket cash register as you wait at the check-out counter, billfold in hand, only amplifies the problem.

Second, food purchases are made frequently. Once or twice a week visits to the food store reinforce the idea that substantial sums of money are being spent for food.

Third, some food items have moved up faster than the all-foods price index. The retail price index for meat in January, for example, reached 136.1, nearly 8 points above the all-foods price index. High prices for one food item tend to focus attention on prices of all food items.

Runaway inflation has not been the case for dairy products. The index of retail prices for milk and dairy products is currently at 119.1 (1967-

100), substantially less than the consumer price index and substantially less than the index of all food prices. Why? Highly competitive conditions exist in the milk industry, said Jacobson, pointing out that fluid milk is widely used as a price leader and often as a loss leader. Thus, fluid milk prices have increased by only 17 per cent since 1967.

Price increases for other dairy products since 1967 have amounted to 5 per cent for butter, 25 per cent for cheese, and 7 per cent for ice cream. The retail price increases for milk and dairy products have been moderate, compared to the price inflation of other goods and services.

Excess profits are not a part of the dairy industry, Jacobson pointed out. Farm management records compiled on 190 Ohio dairy farms in 1971 showed that returns on investment in dairy farming ranged from 4.6 per cent (on farms with less than 40 cows) to 7.5 per cent (on farms with 80 or more cows).

Dairy processors' profits in 1971, as a percentage of stockholder equity, were 11.1 per cent. Their profits as a percentage of the sales dollar (after Federal income taxes) were only 2.3 per cent.

Retail food chains' profits as a percentage of stockholder equity in 1971 were 10.5 per cent, and they dropped from that in 1972. Profits as a percentage of the sales dollar were 1 per cent.

The returns on investment or profits from the dairy farms, dairy processors, and food chains are normal and necessary to draw the necessary capital resources into these industries, Jacobson said.

He doesn't foresee any further significant change in consumer milk and dairy product prices in 1973. In fact, he said, as we move closer to the seasonal flush production period of May and June, additional milk supplies will likely mean price reductions for some products, particularly nonfat dry milk.

Lab Expects More Soil Tests Because Of Wet Fall Weather

By GEORGE HAMRICK
County Extension Agent, Agriculture

"Growers who have not had their soil tested for the 1973 crop should do so as soon as possible," says John Trierweiler, supervisor of the Soil Testing Laboratory at The Ohio State University. "The record-breaking wet weather we had last fall not only delayed crop harvests, 'Trierweiler explains," but greatly decreased the number of soil samples we analyzed then."

The specialist says the laboratory staff expects many more samples than normal this spring. "The spring rush will also increase the pressure on fertilizer dealers who will probably be asked for earlier delivery to meet advanced planting dates," he states.

"In spite of the added load, we do not anticipate delay in getting soil test results and recommendations back to producers," Trierweiler insists. "We are well geared up for the increased sample load and should continue to meet a two-week mailing and processing time schedule."

"We hope growers will plant earlier this year. Most corn and soybeans grown in the state are planted later than we recommend. Last fall some early planted crops matured and were harvested before the prolonged wet period set in," the specialist continues.

He suggests testing land that will be brought back into production this year because "no one can properly fertilize a crop unless he knows how much of the various available plant nutrients the soil contains." On set-aside acres, nutrients are probably less available because of fixation of some nutrients and leaching of others.

Through the natural weathering processes, soils tend to become more acid unless water cannot move through them, says Trierweiler. This process of weathering and leaching decreases the basic ions like calcium, magnesium, and potassium and increases the acid hydrogen ions. For soils that tend to be acidic, it is especially important to maintain a proper balance between the basic and acidic ions and thereby cause the levels of acidity, as measured by pH, to remain in a desirable range for the crop to be grown. These soils must be limed to accomplish this.

Deep-rooted crops like sugarbeets, alfalfa, and other deep-rooted legumes, which cannot grow well on acid soils, need a desirable pH in the subsoil as well as in the surface soil. To achieve this, the surface soil must be limed to pH 7 (neutral). The one crop that will tolerate more acid conditions is bluegrass. The laboratory recommends liming bluegrass to pH 6.

A soil test not only shows how acid the soil is and how much lime is needed to insure good crop growth. This information is all given in the lime and fertilizer recommendations section of the soil test results sheet.

Growers can pick up soil testing information sheets at their county Cooperative Extension office or at some lime and fertilizer dealers' stores. Mailers for lawn and garden samples are available at county Extension offices and at some garden stores.

And So It Grows

By GEORGE HAMRICK
County Extension Agent, Agriculture
Your First Attempt at Dahlias

You can buy dahlias as seed, rooted cuttings, or dormant roots. Because dahlias are hybrids, seeds won't always produce plants with flowers like those from which the seeds were taken.

That's the reason most gardeners prefer to buy dormant roots or to plant dormant roots saved from the previous year. But, if you want to plant seed just to find out what you will come up with, horticulturists suggest you start the seeds in boxes of sandy loam soil, not more than a month before you expect the last spring frost.

Keep the soil moist and transplant seedlings outside when frost is no longer a danger. Whether you sow seeds indoors or out, cover them with only one-half inch of soil. It is also a good idea to treat the seed with a fungicide before planting.

It is best to plant seedlings in a sandy loam that is slightly acid. However, dahlias will grow successfully in most garden soils that are well drained. Pick a planting site that gets at least six hours of sun a day. The site should have good air circulation but protection from strong winds. Plants also need room to develop. Give large flowering dahlias 3 to 4 feet distance from the next nearest plant. Smaller varieties can get by on 2 feet. Place a stake directly alongside the plant at the time of planting. Your dahlia's future is at stake if you fail to do this.

Many ornamental trees, flowering shrubs, roses and evergreens are easy to propagate by home methods. The offspring will have exactly the same characteristics as the parent plant.

Horticulturists say an easy home propagation method is layering. Start by working leafmold or peat and sand into the soil where you will layer the branch. Next, make a slanting cut 2 inches long on the upper side of the branch about 12 inches from the tip. Dust the cut with a rooting stimulant you can get in most garden supply stores. Then fasten the branch to the soil. Pin it down between the trunk and the cut with a wooden peg or wire wicket, or weight it down with a stone. After you pin the branch to the soil, bend the tip upright, twisting the branch as if you were turning a screwdriver one-half a turn. This opens the cut.

Next, place a second peg or pin over the branch directly at the point of the cut. Cover the pegged branch with several inches of prepared soil. Mound the soil around the upturned stem so the wound is 3 or 4 inches underground. Pack the covering soil firmly. Put a layer of straw or leaves over the layered branch and water frequently to keep the covering soil moist.

Next spring, cut the rooted branch free from the parent plant. Leave the new plant in place for 2 or 3 weeks after you cut it free. Then transplant it to another location. The 2 to 3 week recovery period gets the plant over the shock of being cut free of the parent plant.

Leaving home is hard on twigs no matter how they're bent.

Food Prices Not Up As Much As It Seems

By GEORGE HAMRICK

County Extension Agent, Agriculture

A good many Americans are "up tight" about food prices. Farmers and others with agricultural interests tend to be overly defensive about food price increases and overblame other parties, particularly the "middleman." People outside of agriculture put most of the blame for inflation on food prices.

"It's time we attempt to put these conflicting impressions into some kind of perspective," said Robert E. Jacobson, extension economist at The Ohio State University, speaking at the Dairy Industry Conference held recently on the Ohio State campus.

Fact is, he said, food prices did not increase as fast as prices of other consumer goods and services until January of this year. Then, they caught up. The Consumer Price Index for January showed that retail prices in general have inflated 27.7 per cent since 1967 while food prices increased 28.6 per cent.

Why all the concern about food prices, then, if their upward trend was about the general rate of inflation? Jacobson sees three reasons.

One is that food prices have great visibility, and the continuous chatter of the supermarket cash register as you wait at the check-out counter, billfold in hand, only amplifies the problem.

Second, food purchases are made frequently. Once or twice a week visits to the food store reinforce the idea that substantial sums of money are being spent for food.

Third, some food items have moved up faster than the all-foods price index. The retail price index for meat in January, for example, reached 136.1, nearly 8 points above the all-foods price index. High prices for one food item tend to focus attention on prices of all food items.

Runaway inflation has not been the case for dairy products. The index of retail prices for milk and dairy products is currently at 119.1 (1967-

100), substantially less than the consumer price index and substantially less than the index of all food prices. Why? Highly competitive conditions exist in the milk industry, said Jacobson, pointing out that fluid milk is widely used as a price leader and often as a loss leader. Thus, fluid milk prices have increased by only 17 per cent since 1967.

Price increases for other dairy products since 1967 have amounted to 5 per cent for butter, 25 per cent for cheese, and 7 per cent for ice cream. The retail price increases for milk and dairy products have been moderate, compared to the price inflation of other goods and services.

Excess profits are not a part of the dairy industry, Jacobson pointed out. Farm management records compiled on 190 Ohio dairy farms in 1971 showed that returns on investment in dairy farming ranged from 4.6 per cent (on farms with less than 40 cows) to 7.5 per cent (on farms with 80 or more cows).

Dairy processors' profits in 1971, as a percentage of stockholder equity, were 11.1 per cent. Their profits as a percentage of the sales dollar (after Federal income taxes) were only 2.3 per cent.

Retail food chains' profits as a percentage of stockholder equity in 1971 were 10.5 per cent, and they dropped from that in 1972. Profits as a percentage of the sales dollar were 1 per cent.

The returns on investment or profits from the dairy farms, dairy processors, and food chains are normal and necessary to draw the necessary capital resources into these industries, Jacobson said.

He doesn't foresee any further significant change in consumer milk and dairy product prices in 1973. In fact, he said, as we move closer to the seasonal flush production period of May and June, additional milk supplies will likely mean price reductions for some products, particularly nonfat dry milk.

Lab Expects More Soil Tests Because Of Wet Fall Weather

By GEORGE HAMRICK

County Extension Agent, Agriculture

"Growers who have not had their soil tested for the 1973 crop should do so as soon as possible," says John Trierweiler, supervisor of the Soil Testing Laboratory at The Ohio State University. "The record-breaking wet weather we had last fall not only delayed crop harvests, 'Trierweiler explains,' but greatly decreased the number of soil samples we analyzed then."

The specialist says the laboratory staff expects many more samples than normal this spring. "The spring rush will also increase the pressure on fertilizer dealers who will probably be asked for earlier delivery to meet advanced planting dates," he states.

"In spite of the added load, we do not anticipate delay in getting soil test results and recommendations back to producers," Trierweiler insists. "We are well geared up for the increased sample load and should continue to meet a two-week mailing and processing time schedule."

"We hope growers will plant earlier this year. Most corn and soybeans grown in the state are planted later than we recommend. Last fall some early planted crops matured and were harvested before the prolonged wet period set in," the specialist continues.

He suggests testing land that will be brought back into production this year because "no one can properly fertilize a crop unless he knows how much of the various available plant nutrients the soil contains." On set-aside acres, nutrients are probably less available because of fixation of some nutrients and leaching of others.

Through the natural weathering processes, soils tend to become more acid unless water cannot move through them, says Trierweiler. This process of weathering and leaching decreases the basic ions like calcium, magnesium, and potassium and increases the acid hydrogen ions. For soils that tend to be acidic, it is especially important to maintain a proper balance between the basic and acidic ions and thereby cause the levels of acidity, as measured by pH, to remain in a desirable range for the crop to be grown. These soils must be limed to accomplish this.

Deep-rooted crops like sugarbeets, alfalfa, and other deep-rooted legumes, which cannot grow well on acid soils, need a desirable pH in the subsoil as well as in the surface soil. To achieve this, the surface soil must be limed to pH 7 (neutral). The one crop that will tolerate more acid conditions is bluegrass. The laboratory recommends liming bluegrass to pH 6.

A soil test not only shows how acid the soil is and how much lime is needed to insure good crop growth. This information is all given in the lime and fertilizer recommendations section of the soil test results sheet.

Growers can pick up soil testing information sheets at their county Cooperative Extension office or at some lime and fertilizer dealers' stores. Mailers for lawn and garden samples are available at county Extension offices and at some garden stores.

4-H On The Go

"What" or "Who" is a 4-H Junior Leader

The 4-H Junior Leader is an older, more experienced 4-H'er, usually 14 years of age or older, with three or more years of 4-H experience. The Junior Leader's basic job, or role, is to encourage younger 4-H'ers to assume leadership responsibilities, to assist with their projects, and to assist in carrying out the local and county 4-H programs. The Junior Leader works under the guidance of the local adult leader and the County Extension Agents. He usually begins his Junior Leader experience with relatively easy and familiar tasks, and over a period of time, graduates to more difficult tasks. Who can be a 4-H Junior Leader?

It has already been indicated that the general qualifications for Jr. Leadership in Ohio deal with age and experience. Does this mean that as soon as you reach a certain magic combination of age and 4-H experience, you automatically become a Junior Leader? Hardly! What then constitutes our criteria for selection of Jr. Leaders from those older 4-H'ers who reach the minimum age and experience levels?

In addition to the above criteria, a 4-H'er must:

be willing to accept responsibility exhibit consistent behavior time after time in different situations maintain positive relationships with others

be willing to learn more about leadership

be cooperative

be willing to share

As you can see the job of Junior Leadership is not a simple one. If you study the points just listed and perhaps add a few more of your own, you will note that a 4-H Junior Leader doesn't operate in a vacuum. Or - perhaps another way of saying it is that in the process of 4-H Junior Leadership, you have to relate to people-you don't go it alone. You have to be aware of, and consider other people.

Pointers From Penni

"Eclectic"—a mix of old and new furnishings—is a design look many decorators use to create a pleasant room. Many of us amateurs use it out of sheer necessity!

It sounds easy—just add a new chair or fit in that prized antique. But achieving a pleasant put-together look takes thought and the use of design elements, such as line, color, and scale. Dorothy Teater, Extension Specialist, Housing and Furnishings, The Ohio State University, gives us these "how-to" ideas:

Look for a similar design element in both the old and new furniture pieces. For example — an old piece with curved lines will fit with contemporary styles that also have curved lines. Or a new piece with dominant straight lines such as the popular Parsons table, blends well with traditional styles that also have straight lines. Repeating the same kind of line is one way to combine different styles of furniture.

Use color—this is the easiest way to achieve a happy mix. Using the same color or pattern on both old and new furnishings makes them all seem to belong to the room. When you add either an old or new piece, make it repeat a color already present in the room. Remember that woods have color, too. Wood colors can be similar, but need not match.

Various woods can be used together, but a more harmonious look is achieved when the woods are similar in feeling. For example—some woods such as oak, maple, and pine appear casual and informal; walnut, cherry and mahogany are more formal in nature. The degree of formality—which depends somewhat on the styling of the furniture—is a key to blending different woods.

Combine furniture that is similar in scale. When you mix furniture, avoid placing a tiny table near a very large chair or a bulky chair next to a delicate desk. Balance the furniture placement, too—one side of the room should not appear heavier than another.

Scioto Mod Menders By Linda Green

The Scioto Mod Menders met at the United Methodist Church on March 8th. Karen Green called the meeting to order and Judy Tharp led the pledges. There were 12 members present.

During the meeting we sewed and worked on making darts. Camp dates and the fair were discussed. Rita Stone and Linda Green are on the program committee.

For recreation we played kickball. Refreshments were served by Debbie Myers and Rozann Conrad.

Our next meeting will be at the United Methodist Church on March 22, 1973, at 7 p.m.

Orient Roadrunners By Pamela Spencer

The Orient Roadrunners met at the Orient Methodist Church on March 12, 1973.

Valorie Friend gave a demonstration on pumping up a tire. We are going to get an old bike and fix it up. Members were given a test to see how much review we need.

Refreshments were served by Becky and Jeff Bragg. Our next meeting will be at the Orient Methodist Church, March 26, at 7 p.m.

Scioto Hardy Workers By Rozann Conrad

Our club met at the Commercial Point Methodist Church on March 12, 1973. A demonstration on how to set a table was given by Cheri Stewart. Rozann Conrad gave a talk on the four basic food groups.

Money making projects were discussed. There will be a bake sale the first Saturday in April. Refreshments were served by Karen Green and Cheri Stewart.

The next meeting will be at the Commercial Point Methodist Church on March 26, 1973, at 7:30 p.m. During this meeting Connie Stewart will give a demonstration on measuring, Karen Green will talk on nutrients, and refreshments will be served by Rozann Conrad and Lisa Kaiser.

Buttons and Bowls, Jr. By Debbie Betz

Our club met at the home of Mrs. Jack Young on March 12. The meeting was opened with devotions and our pledges. Projects were discussed.

The deadline for dues is May 14 and after that date dues will be 50 cents extra. We decided to take money from our treasury to pay our share for the foundation block of the new Extension Building at the Fairgrounds. We will also give $10 for a basket of fruit to be given to a needy family at Easter.

Our next meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Jack Young, March 26, at 6:30 p.m. This will be our safety meeting.

The Speedy Cats By Tom Hartranft

The Speedy Cats held a meeting at the Saltcreek School on March 12, 1973. Devotions were given by Carla Toops. The bicycle pledge was led by second and third year members. Our pledge to the flag and 4-H pledge were given.

Our advisers will be David Hartranft, Frank Baylous and Wanda Hartranft. Officers are: Eric Fogler, president; Kevin Clarke, vice-president; Tammy Reichelderfer, secretary; Carla Toops, treasurer; and Tom Hartranft, newsreporter. Members introduced themselves and enrollment cards were filled out. Sixteen new members joined our club, making a total of 24 members.

Our club will give money toward the Junior Fair office building. Refreshments were served by Mr. and Mrs. Hartranft.

Our next meeting will be at the Saltcreek School, March 26, 1973, at 7 p.m.

Perry Farmers of Tomorrow By Jill Long

Our club met at the home of our adviser, Dick Somers, February 28, 1973. Projects were discussed and the following officers were elected: Jeff Skinner, president; Judy Wolford, vice-president; Bette Roberts, secretary; Jill Long, newsreporter; Steve Long, safety leader; Charlie Roberts, treasurer; Theresa Stonerock, health leader; Sheri Somers and Melissa Elliot, recreation leaders.

Refreshments were served by Sheri Somers. Our next meeting will be at the Atlanta Community Church, March 13, 1973, at 7 p.m.

Pickaway Peanuts By Rhonda Barnes

The Pickaway Peanuts met at the residence of Betty Barnes on March 6, 1973. Five new members were welcomed: Dawn Fontaine, Joey Kellough, Nancy Archer, Debbie Davis, and Richie Mundy. Also, a new adviser, Mrs. Ann Conrad.

We decided to close membership after 20 members had joined. We now have 18 members. We voted to bring 35 cents for block building fund as a community project.

During the meeting each member chose the project he wished to take. A demonstration was given by Bill Dountz regarding safety on a bicycle and walking. Refreshments were served by Jerri Looper, Jeff Chamberlain, Leta Thompson, Kim Smith, and Carolyn Conrad.

Our next meeting will be at the home of Lorie Williams, 2060 Souix Drive, Circleville, on March 20, 1973, at 7 p.m.

Westfall Livestock By Mike Logan

The Westfall Livestock Club met at the home of Linda Carter on March 6, 1973. Officers elected: Sherry Mueller, president; Linda Carter, vice-president; Amy Woods, secretary; Mike McCabe, treasurer; Mike Logan, newsreporter; John Easter, health; Roger McCabe, safety; John Hoffman, recreation.

Sherry started her new office of president by appointing a constitution committee. Kathi Easter, Jill Hoffman, Mike Logan and Amy Woods will create a constitution for the 4-H club. Each member will give 35 cents to the building fund.

A roller skating party to be held at Circle D was discussed. Date and time will be announced later. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Carter.

Our next meeting will be held at the home of Kathi Easter, March 20, 1973, at 7:30 p.m.

Scioto Up An Comin By Timothy Hancock

The Scioto Up An Comin Club met at the home of Sue Braskett on March 6, 1973. The 4-H pledge was led by Sue and the Pledge to the Flag by Scott Woods.

Three new members were present. During the meeting we discussed club dues, money making project, and an educational tour.

Each member will pay $1.00 dues, and we will give 50 cents per member for the building at the Fairgrounds.

For recreation we played hide-and-seek and dodgeball. Our next meeting will be at the home of Sue Braskett, March 20, 1973, at 8 p.m.

Western Rough Riders By Jill Glick

The Western Rough Riders met at the home of Jill Glick on March 5, 1973.

A safety and health report was given to Lori Archer and Beth Turner. During the meeting we discussed the constitution and our next workout. We should all go out at least once and work out our horses and brush them down to get the winter coat off.

Joy Hay and Robin Erwin won the guessing game of candy bars. Refreshments were served by Jill Glick.

Our next meeting will be at the home of Linda Walden, April 2, 1973, at 7:30 p.m.

Dog In My Life By George W. Kirk

Our club met at the home of our adviser, Sheila Kirk, on March 6, 1973. We welcomed 4 new members and closed our membership. We have a total of 13 members.

A committee was elected to review the club constitution. During the meeting we read and discussed chapters 4-5-6. Collars and leashes were given to the new members who had ordered them.

Money was collected for the "Buy A Block" fund, and we voted to match it with an equal amount from our club treasury.

Terry Myers led the group in a rousing game of Beat-The-Clock. Our next meeting will be at the home of Sheila Kirk, 112 Powell St., Ashville, on

4-H On The Go

"What" or "Who" is a 4-H Junior Leader

The 4-H Junior Leader is an older, more experienced 4-H'er, usually 14 years of age or older, with three or more years of 4-H experience. The Junior Leader's basic job, or role, is to encourage younger 4-H'ers to assume leadership responsibilities, to assist with their projects, and to assist in carrying out the local and county 4-H programs. The Junior Leader works under the guidance of the local adult leader and the County Extension Agents. He usually begins his Junior Leader experience with relatively easy and familiar tasks, and over a period of time, graduates to more difficult tasks. Who can be a 4-H Junior Leader:

It has already been indicated that the general qualifications for Jr. Leadership in Ohio deal with age and experience. Does this mean that as soon as you reach a certain magic combination of age and 4-H experience, you automatically become a Junior Leader? Hardly! What then constitutes our criteria for selection of Jr. Leaders from those older 4-H'ers who reach the minimum age and experience levels?

In addition to the above criteria, a 4-H'er must:

- be willing to accept responsibility
- exhibit consistent behavior time after time in different situations
- maintain positive relationships with others
- be willing to learn more about leadership
- be cooperative
- be willing to share

As you can see the job of Junior Leadership is not a simple one. If you study the points just listed and perhaps add a few more of your own, you will note that a 4-H Junior Leader doesn't operate in a vacuum. Or - perhaps another way of saying it is that in the process of 4-H Junior Leadership, you have to relate to people-you don't go it alone. You have to be aware of, and consider other people.

March 20, 1973, at 6 p.m.

Buttons and Bowls, Jr.

The first meeting of the club was held March 12, at Washington Twp. School. 16 members were present. Projects for the coming year were discussed and the calendar for the year was announced.

The next meeting will be held March 26, at 7 p.m., at Washington Twp. School. Election of officers will be held. Anyone wishing to join this club should attend this meeting.

Ashville Stir and Stitch

The club held its organizational meeting on March 10, at 10 a.m., at the Village United Methodist Church. 12 members were present. Three of these were new members.

We discussed projects for the coming year and set dues at $1.00.

The next meeting will be March 26, at 7:00 p.m., at the home of Cindy Lockard. Election of officers will be held. Cindy Lockard and Rhonda Bircher will have refreshments.

"Eclectic"—a mix of old and new furnishings—is a design look many decorators use to create a pleasant room. Many of us amateurs use it out of sheer necessity!

It sounds easy—just add a new chair or fit in that prized antique. But achieving a pleasant put-together look takes thought and the use of design elements, such as line, color, and scale. Dorothy Teater, Extension Specialist, Housing and Furnishings, The Ohio State University, gives us these "how-to" ideas:

Look for a similar design element in both the old and new furniture pieces. For example — an old piece with curved lines will fit with contemporary styles that also have curved lines. Or a new piece with dominant straight lines such as the popular Parsons table, blends well with traditional styles that also have straight lines. Repeating the same kind of line is one way to combine different styles of furniture.

Use color—this is the easiest way to achieve a happy mix. Using the same color or pattern on both old and new furnishings makes them all seem to belong to the room. When you add either an old or new piece, make it repeat a color already present in the room. Remember that woods have color, too. Wood colors can be similar, but need not match.

Various woods can be used together, but a more harmonious look is achieved when the woods are similar in feeling. For example—some woods such as oak, maple, and pine appear casual and informal; walnut, cherry and mahogany are more formal in nature. The degree of formality—which depends somewhat on the styling of the furniture—is a key to blending different woods.

Combine furniture that is similar in scale. When you mix furniture, avoid placing a tiny table near a very large chair or a bulky chair next to a delicate desk. Balance the furniture placement, too—one side of the room should not appear heavier than another.

Combine styles of furniture that have the same feeling of formality or informality. Furniture that gives you a feeling of elegance and dignity is formal in spirit. The amount of furniture is important, too. Never mix equal amounts of two styles of furniture. Use a majority of one style;

A Page Of Opinion

Seniority Under Fire

Private industry, at least the largest segment of it, pays little attention to factors other than ability when personnel promotions are considered. Age, seniority and long tenure do not produce new ideas and the refreshing surge forward needed to keep industry constantly moving into new paths and improving old ones. Brilliance on the part of individual persons does these things.

But in government service, ability frequently is not the prime requisite, or a requisite at all, for promotion. From the teaching profession to civil service to the military, seniority counts most of all. It isn't taking anything away from experience to say that local, state and federal government units are not getting a fair return on the taxpayers' money by not ranking performance and ability as primary considerations in filling positions in upper echelons.

But it is difficult, especially in the military, to avoid the obvious pitfall of choosing promotion candidates for personal, political or other non-military reasons. One of the advantages of the seniority system is that outside pressures generally have little influence. Even history doesn't give a clear answer to the wisdom of choosing leaders without regard for military seniority. Gen Washington was regarded mature at 43 when he became commander-in-chief, but what about Maj. Gen. Lafayette who served so brilliantly under Washington at age 20? Alexander was only 22 when he began his long march, Napoleon had conquered Europe when he was 30, fame had touched Wellington at 30, George Custer gained fame as the boy general, Caesar was 42 at the apex of his career, and Grant was beginning his second career at 40.

All of these men made their marks, but not all were dedicated to the defense of liberty. There is much to be said for the effect of aging on military decisions.

Today In History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS Today is Saturday, March 17, the 76th day of 1973. There are 289 days left in the year. This is St. Patrick's Day.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1776, British troops evacuated Boston during the revolutionary war. The redcoats had been under siege since the battle of Bunker Hill seven months earlier.

On this date — In 1836, the republic of Texas adopted a constitution.

In 1926, Brazil and Spain blocked Germany's admission to the League of Nations.

In 1938, during the Spanish Civil War, the loyalist-held city of Barcelona was bombed.

In 1941, the national gallery of art was opened in Washington.

In 1959, there was an uprising against the Chinese garrison, and the Tibetan spiritual leader, the Dalai Lama, escaped to India.

In 1970, the U.S. used its first veto in the U.N., joining with Britain in rejecting a resolution calling on U.N. members to cut all communications with the white government of Rhodesia.

Ten years ago: President John F. Kennedy arrived in San Jose, Costa Rica for a conference with six Latin American presidents.

Five years ago: During an international gold crisis, seven nations, including the United States, agreed not to supply gold to private buyers.

One year ago: It was announced that the U.S. Air Force would gradually withdraw a substantial part of its force from Taiwan over the next two years.

Today's birthdays: Civil rights leader Bayard Rustin is 63. Actress Mercedes McCambridge is 55.

Thought for today: The spirit indeed is willing, but the flesh is weak — the Bible's book of Matthew.

"He's an Eskimo dog."

Speaking Of Your Health

by Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

People who suffer a heart attack are often fearful and restrained from going back to full activity, even when given permission to do so by their doctors.

They need a great deal of reassurance and must learn that a heart attack does not necessarily mean that they are dislocated from society and from their own productivity.

Dr. Allen Bures and Dr. Alfred Buerger, working at the University of California at Irvine, have devised a system which they think should raise to 90 per cent the number of cardiac patients who are again able to work and to function close to their previous level.

Patients being studied wear a portable transistor that sends out electrocardiogram signals to a hospital where a computer immediately picks up any abnormalities.

If any do occur, doctors are immediately alerted and contact the patient. This gives the patient tremendous reassurance that he is under a specialist's surveillance at all times.

In this way, he progresses to the point where he replaces his fears with confidence.

An operation that might be considered comparable to vasectomy is now being performed in women for the purpose of contraception.

Dr. Jerry Hulka, of the Memorial Hospital in Chapel Hill, N.C., is using a new technique by which he places clips on the fallopian tubes to insure sterility.

The operation, done under local anesthesia, is made through a small, half-inch incision in the lower abdomen.

The greatest advantage of this new operation is that the clips can be removed and the fallopian tubes restored to their normal condition. The previous technique of tying off the tubes did not permit such reversal.

Many complex tests are used to learn if a sufficient amount of blood is being pumped from the heart into the brain by way of the large carotid artery in the neck.

Such deficiency can be responsible for small and large strokes and special types of extreme dizziness.

Recently, a very clever technique was developed at the New York Medical College. Here, two eye specialists, Dr. Miles Galin and Dr. Milton Best, collaborated with two heart specialists, Dr. George Plechaty and Dr. Peter Nussbaum, in developing a method to measure the pulsations of the blood vessels in the eyes.

This, they believe, can indicate the amount of blood flowing through the carotid artery in the neck.

The pulsations are measured through a tiny plastic suction cup which is painlessly applied to the anesthetized eye. This device may spare patients the need for the more complicated ways of studying circulation that are now being used.

Hardening Attitude

A discernible switch in attitudes by the public toward drug pushers is taking place in the United States. The old ho-hum attitude is giving way to cries of "hang them!"

This is particularly noticeable in areas where the pushers make their heaviest strikes—in Harlem and surrounding areas of New York and on the college campuses. The drug cult no longer is accepted, or in some cases even respected. It is now on almost everyone's blacklist.

Typical of the hardline attitude emerging is that of Glenn

A. Olds, president of Kent State University. That institution will be recalled as the scene of tumultuous rioting during the 1960s which culminated in confrontation with National Guard troops and the deaths of four youths.

Olds comes right to the point in describing his technique for handling drug pushers. "Those persons who hook young people on hard drugs should be shot," he said. "This reflects my personal opinion on capital punishment as well," Olds added.

Pointing to investigations which tie a rash of campus burglaries into drug use, the Kent State chief also derided the idea that marijuana is harmless. The use of marijuana does "invite the climate of hard drug traffic on campus," Olds is convinced.

There are still differences of opinion on the drug question, but those who live closest to the drug scene—on campuses and in neighborhoods where usage is high—generally are coming to one conclusion: the pusher is the target, and the means of eliminating him are not as selective as they were formerly.

Sartorial Symptoms

By JEFFREY HART

Stylistically, the 1960's began in England, with the Liverpool sound of the Beatles and the Mod Look of Carnaby Street: funky clothes, marcelled young men, and all the rest.

It is not without interest, therefore, that England seems to be leading the way in another stylistic shift, this time a counter-revolution.

A fashion reporter with the superb name of Serena Sinclair—marvelously reminiscent of Evelyn Waugh's 1920's novels—filed a special story on it recently for the Christian Science Monitor. A few choice paragraphs:

"It's going to be a demanding spring—but help is at hand. The new pulled-together look essential this season wreaks havoc among the young who have loved the fun of doing their own thing with contrasting layers. 'I can't face this spring. I only know how to dress in jeans and lots of tops,' moaned one fashion artist. But the designers are pulled together too. Many are doing their best, their least freaky collections in years. . . If every other London girl is not wearing a real pulled-together suit and hat this spring along Knightsbridge or Bond Street, then she's not as sharp as I take her to be. Far from the killing word 'respectability,' this 1950's look now has the allure of something new. It's Susan down the street, in faded denims and suede battledress, who's going to look passe. . .

"This is the bluest spring in years and Englishwomen, and more particularly Englishmen, should be delighted. It's of long tradition the favorite spring color. . . More 50's feeling in elasticized shoulder lines on countless cotton dresses and in white blouses with horizontally tucked full sleeves. The stay high, or get pushed low, Rita Hayworth clothes. . . With all these London spring clothes the most surprising item. . . is the strong return of hats and gloves. Gloves!? Most English girls own one pair of woolly mittens for cold days! Period. They'll have to come around now."

Thank you, Serena Sinclair. Why London designers, in 1960, and now in 1973, seem to be the first to sense a shift in popular mood remains something of a mystery. Perhaps the relative smallness and concentration of English society has something to do with it, so different from sprawling and heterogeneous America.

Yet even here in America there are interesting omens this spring. Two or three years ago you could not walk through Harvard Square without sneezing from pot fumes and being overwhelmed with the desire to take a cleansing shower—or bath.

But Nora Sayre, an astute writer for the Village Voice, has revisited the Cambridge scene, viz.: "Many have remarked on the degree of awareness in the classes of '74 and '75. Bridge is back and so is booze. . . you hear the word 'dating'; there was even a formal last year. . . Behind Widener Library, I heard two middle-aged white men—neatly buttoned into their jackets—chatting about 'the brothers.' 'How are the brothers doing?' 'Oh, the brothers are doing fine.' Somewhat

Organized Labor Boycotts Demo Fund-Raiser

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — an AFL-CIO official says the organization will boycott a $100-a-plate Democratic party fund-raising dinner next month.

James Iafelice, chairman of the AFL-CIO's Committee On Political Education, said Thursday the organization is boycotting all of the party's fund-raising efforts to protest alleged mistreatment from Gov. John Gilligan and Cuyahoga County party members.

For the first time in its history, the 20,000-member labor group refused to purchase of $1,000 of tickets for the dinner. Iafelice said the group is now "a bachelor in the political arena."

The 130,000-member Teamsters Union is expected to follow suit, but its leader, Jackie Presser, was out of town and unavailable for comment.

A Page Of Opinion

Seniority Under Fire

Private industry, at least the largest segment of it, pays little attention to factors other than ability when personnel promotions are considered. Age, seniority and long tenure do not produce new ideas and the refreshing surge forward needed to keep industry constantly moving into new paths and improving old ones. Brilliance on the part of individual persons does these things.

But in government service, ability frequently is not the prime requisite, or a requisite at all, for promotion. From the teaching profession to civil service to the military, seniority counts most of all. It isn't taking anything away from experience to say that local, state and federal government units are not getting a fair return on the taxpayers' money by not ranking performance and ability as primary considerations in filling positions in upper echelons.

But it is difficult, especially in the military, to avoid the obvious pitfall of choosing promotion candidates for personal, political or other non-military reasons. One of the advantages of the seniority system is that outside pressures generally have little influence. Even history doesn't give a clear answer to the wisdom of choosing leaders without regard for military seniority. Gen Washington was regarded mature at 43 when he became commander-in-chief, but what about Maj. Gen. Lafayette who served so brilliantly under Washington at age 20? Alexander was only 22 when he began his long march, Napoleon had conquered Europe when he was 30, fame had touched Wellington at 30, George Custer gained fame as the boy general, Caesar was 42 at the apex of his career, and Grant was beginning his second career at 40.

Hardening Attitude

A discernible switch in attitudes by the public toward drug pushers is taking place in the United States. The old ho-hum attitude is giving way to cries of "hang them!"

This is particularly noticeable in areas where the pushers make their heaviest strikes—in Harlem and surrounding areas of New York and on the college campuses. The drug cult no longer is accepted, or in some cases even respected. It is now on almost everyone's blacklist. Typical of the hardline attitude emerging is that of Glenn

A. Olds, president of Kent State University. That institution will be recalled as the scene of tumultuous rioting during the 1960s which culminated in confrontation with National Guard troops and the deaths of four youths.

Olds comes right to the point in describing his technique for handling drug pushers. "Those persons who hook young people on hard drugs should be shot," he said. "This reflects my personal opinion on capital punishment as well," Olds added. Pointing to investigations which tie a rash of campus burglaries into drug use, the Kent State chief also derided the idea that marijuana is harmless. The use of marijuana does "invite the climate of hard drug traffic on campus," Olds is convinced. There are still differences of opinion on the drug question, but those who live closest to the drug scene—on campuses and in neighborhoods where usage is high—generally are coming to one conclusion: the pusher is the target, and the means of eliminating him are not as selective as they were formerly.

Sartorial Symptoms

By JEFFREY HART

Stylistically, the 1960's began in England, with the Liverpool sound of the Beatles and the Mod Look of Carnaby Street: funky clothes, marceled young men, and all the rest. It is not without interest, therefore, that England seems to be leading the way in another stylistic shift, this time a counter-revolution. A fashion reporter with the superb name of Serena Sinclair—marvelously reminiscent of Evelyn Waugh's 1920's novels—filed a special story on it recently for the Christian Science Monitor. A few choice paragraphs: "It's going to be a demanding spring—but help is at hand. The new pulled-together look essential this season wreaks havoc among the young who have loved the fun of doing their own thing with contrasting layers. 'I can't face this spring. I only know how to dress in jeans and lots of tops,' moaned one fashion artist. But the designers are pulled together too. Many are doing their best, their least freaky collections in years. . . If every other London girl is not wearing a real pulled-together suit and hat this spring along Knightsbridge or Bond Street, then she's not as sharp as I take her to be. Far from the killing word 'respectability,' this 1960's look now has the allure of something new. It's Susan down the street, in faded denims and suede batdress, who's going to look passe. . . 'This is the bluest spring in years and Englishwomen, and more particularly Englishmen, should be delighted. It's of long tradition the favorite spring color. . . More 50's feeling in elasticized shoulder lines on countless cotton dresses and in white blouses with horizontally tucked full sleeves. The stay high, or get pushed low, Rita Hayworth-style. . . With all these London spring clothes the most surprising item. . . is the strong return of hats and gloves. Gloves!? Most English girls own one pair of woolly mittens for cold days! Period. They'll have to come around now." Thank you, Serena Sinclair. Why London designers, in 1960, and now in 1973, seem to be the first to sense a shift in popular mood remains something of a mystery. Perhaps the relative smallness and concentration of English society has something to do with it, so different from sprawling and heterogeneous America. Yet even here in America there are interesting omens this spring. Two or three years ago you could not walk through Harvard Square without sneezing from pot fumes and being overwhelmed with the desire to take a cleansing shower—or bath. But Nora Sayre, an astute writer for the Village Voice, has revisited the Cambridge scene, viz.: "Many have remarked on the degree of awareness in the classes of '74 and '75. Bridge is back and so is booze. . . you hear the word 'dating'; there was even a formal last year. . . Behind Widener Library, I heard two middle-aged white men—neatly buttoned into their jackets—chatting about 'the brothers.' 'How are the brothers doing?' 'Oh, the brothers are doing fine.' Somewhat startled by their apparent concern for black militants, I eavesdropped until I discovered they were talking about Brooks Brothers. One was worried that the firm might be bruised by recession." Che Who? Ho Chi What?

All of these men made their marks, but not all were dedicated to the defense of liberty. There is much to be said for the effect of aging on military decisions.

Today In History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS Today is Saturday, March 17, the 76th day of 1972. There are 289 days left in the year. This is St. Patrick's Day. Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1776, British troops evacuated Boston during the revolutionary war. The redcoats had been under siege since the battle of Bunker Hill seven months earlier. On this date — In 1836, the republic of Texas adopted a constitution. In 1926, Brazil and Spain blocked Germany's admission to the League of Nations. In 1938, during the Spanish Civil War, the loyalist-held city of Barcelona was bombed. In 1941, the national gallery of art was opened in Washington. In 1959, there was an uprising against the Chinese garrison, and the Tibetan spiritual leader, the Dalai Lama, escaped to India. In 1970, the U.S. used its first veto in the U.N., joining with Britain in rejecting a resolution calling on U.N. members to cut all communications with the white government of Rhodesia. Ten years ago: President John F. Kennedy arrived in San Jose, Costa Rica for a conference with six Latin American presidents. Five years ago: During an international gold crisis, seven nations, including the United States, agreed not to supply gold to private buyers. One year ago: It was announced that the U.S. Air Force would gradually withdraw a substantial part of its force from Taiwan over the next two years. Today's birthdays: Civil rights leader Bayard Rustin is 63. Actress Mercedes McCambridge is 55. Thought for today: The spirit indeed is willing, but the flesh is weak — the Bible's book of Matthew.

Speaking Of Your Health

by Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

People who suffer a heart attack are often fearful and restrained from going back to full activity, even when given permission to do so by their doctors. They need a great deal of reassurance and must learn that a heart attack does not necessarily mean that they are dislocated from society and from their own productivity. Dr. Allen Bures and Dr. Alfred Buerger, working t the University of California at Irvine, have devised a system which they think should raise to 90 per cent the number of cardiac patients who are again able to work and to function close to their previous level. Patients being studied wear a portable transistor that sends out electrocardiogram signals to a hospital where a computer immediately picks up any abnormalities. If any do occur, doctors are immediately alerted and contact the patient. This give the patient tremendous reassurance that he is under a specialist's surveillance at all times. In this way, he progresses to the point where he replaces his fears with confidence. An operaton that might be considered comparable to vasectomy is now being performed in women for the purpose of contraception. Dr. Jerry Hulka, of the Memorial Hospital in Chapel Hill, N.C., is using a new technique by which he places clips on the fallopian tubes to insure sterility. The operation, done under local anesthesia, is made through a small, half-inch incision in the lower abdomen. The greatest advantage of this new operation is that the clips can be removed and the fallopian tubes restored to their normal condition. The previous technique of tying off the tubes did not permit such reversal. Many complex tests are used to learn if a sufficient amount of blood is being pumped from the heart into the brain by way of the large carotid artery in the neck. Such deficiency can be responsible for small and large strokes and special types of extreme dizziness. Recently, a very clever technique was developed at the New York Medical College. Here, two eye specialists, Dr. Miles Galin and Dr. Milton Best, collaborated with two heart specialists, Dr. George Plechaty and Dr. Peter Nussbaum, in developing a method to measure the pulsations of the blood vessels in the eyes. This, they believe, can indicate the amount of blood flowing through the carotid artery in the neck. The pulsations are measured through a tiny plastic suction cup which is painlessly applied to the anesthetized eye. This device may spare patients the need for the more complicated ways of studying circulation that are now being used.

Americans Fought Well, VC General Tells Newsmen

HighwayFund Battle Shifts To U.S. House

WASHINGTON (AP) — The battle over using federal highway funds for mass transit now shifts to the House following Senate passage of an $18-billion, three-year highway authorization bill. The Senate bill, approved 77 to 5 Thursday, includes $850 million for optional use by cities on mass-transit systems. Senate insistence on a similar provision last year led to a deadlock with the House and the killing of the bill altogether. Five days of hearings start Monday on the House highway bill. Backers of diverting highway funds to urban transit speculate they will lose in committee but will have a chance when the bill comes to the floor. This prediction is not altered by the conversion of Rep. John C. Kluczynski, D-Ill., chairman of the roads subcommittee, to using some of the highway trust fund for mass transit. The legislative package passed Thursday after two days of Senate debate that included rejection of a move to let much larger trucks and buses on the nation's highways. The bigger-truck amendment by Sen. Clifford Hansen, R-Wyo., lost 67 to 23. Opponents said Hansen's proposal to lift federal weight and width restrictions would lead to mammoth 105-foot-long, 200,000-ton triple truck-trailer "trains" that would mulch the pavement more quickly than 65-foot-long trucks are doing it now. The lion's share of this Senate bill, $3.25 billion annually, goes toward working on the remaining 19 per cent of the 42,000-mile interstate system started in 1956. The completion date is estimated to be 1982.

fighters.... There was no doubt about their courage," Lt. Gen. Tran Van Tra told newsmen at a Canadian cocktail party Thursday night. "But every army must have a cause and ours was national liberation," he continued. "Soldiers who fight for an ideal will always defeat those who don't have one, even if they are not as well equipped. The Americans did not have an ideal to fight for." The party was given by Canadian peacekeeping officials for their visiting foreign minister, Mitchell Sharp. At one time, U.S. Ambassador Ellsworth Bunker was less than 10 feet from the diminutive general whose troops tried to overrun his embassy in the 1968 Tet offensive. But Bunker spotted the green Viet Cong and North Vietnamese uniforms and moved away. It was the first time Western newsmen have been able to talk at length with the Viet Cong general who reportedly commanded the 1968 attack against Saigon and the attacks last year around An Loc and along Highway 13 north of Saigon. Tra obviously enjoyed the discussion but parried most inquiries on tactical subjects and his own role, saying such answers were "top secret."

Perk Establishes Antismut Force

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Smut and prostitution will be on their way out, the transit system will be healthy and the police department will more efficient, if Mayor Ralph J. Perk has his way. Perk said Thursday he was establishing a six-man police smut force, under his direction, to clean up the city. It will be the first time in city history a police unit operates outside the safety department. The police department changes, worked out by Perk and Chief Gerald Rademaker, puts 30 more cars on the street during the high-crime evening hours, cuts patrol zones from 84 to 62, relabels police calls to emergency and non-emergency and increases the number of men on the robbery, burglary, homicide and sex crime units from 80 to 148.

3rd Child In Family Dies Of Rare Heart Disease

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — "This is the way Susan died," Kim Bradley said to his mother as he looked up from his hospital bed.

A few minutes later Kim became the third child of John and Mary Bradley to die of a rare, incurable heart disease called primary pulmonary hypertension.

Kim, 15, had suffered 10 heart attacks.

Doctors at Tallahassee Memorial Hospital said the boy died Thursday without fear, even though he had known for four years the disease would allow him only a short lifespan.

"We just tried to teach him to live one day at a time," said John Bradley, 39. "Do you have any plans for next week? I don't. I'm living for today. We tried to teach Kim to live that way too."

In 1958, the Bradleys' first child, Susan, died of the disease at the age of 3. Three years later, it claimed 2-year-old Linda.

Kim suffered "five major heart attacks and five minor ones over the past four years," said Bradley, a pipefitter at Florida State University. "If we woke up in the morning and everything was all right, then we made plans for that day. If it wasn't all right, then we prepared for the worst."

The Bradleys have two surviving children—a natural daughter, Mary Faith, 11, and an adopted daughter,

Betty Michelle, 6.

"We're pretty sure Mary Faith won't be affected by the disease. The doctors said the odds against one member of a family getting it are 1,000-to-1, and the odds against two getting it are way higher," Bradley said.

He paused for a few seconds, then added, "But we've had three. The odds on that must be ... well, I just don't know. We'll just keep praying it won't be four."

The club held a meeting on March 7, at the home of David Bolender. The meeting was opened by the 4-H pledge. Election of officers was held with results as follows: Bonnie Bolender, president; Terry Hampton, vice president; Jeff Carter, secretary; Willie Waidelich, treasurer; Bruce Carter, news reporter; Karen Ewing, assistant secretary; Todd Stevens, leader; Steve Kempton; safety leader; Matt Weidelich and Cheryl Hampton, recreation leaders.

Dues were set at $1 and have to be in by the first meeting in May. A tour committee was set up. Meetings will be held the first and third Wednesday of each month.

The meeting was adjourned and refreshments were served.

Ohio Workers Earn

11 Per Cent More

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio workers earned 11 per cent more in January, 1973, than they did in January 1972, the Ohio State University Center for Business and Economic Research reported today. January income was $51.7 billion after seasonal adjustment, OSU said.

RESOLUTION NO. 66-A
BE, IT HEREBY RESOLVED, THAT THE VILLAGE OF SOUTH BLOOMFIELD, STATE OF OHIO, VILLAGE COUNCIL, DO HEREBY:

Section 1. Appoint David Dresbach, Mayor of South Bloomfield, to enter into an agreement with the Pickaway County Commissioners, Pickaway County, Ohio, on the adoption of a contract for providing therefore for care and maintenance of the prisoners prosecuted for misdemeanors under ordinances of the Village of South Bloomfield, Ohio, and for payment to the County for such care and maintenance of the prisoners to be housed and cared for in the Pickaway County Jail by the Sheriff of Pickaway County, Ohio.

SECTION 2. Said contract shall be for the period of March 1, 1973 to March 1, 1976, on the terms and conditions herewith contained in said contract.

3rd Child In Family Dies Of Rare Heart Disease

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — "This is the way Susan died," Kim Bradley said to his mother as he looked up from his hospital bed.

A few minutes later Kim became the third child of John and Mary Bradley to die of a rare, incurable heart disease called primary pulmonary hypertension.

Kim, 15, had suffered 10 heart attacks.

Doctors at Tallahassee Memorial Hospital said the boy died Thursday without fear, even though he had known for four years the disease would allow him only a short lifespan.

"We just tried to teach him to live one day at a time," said John Bradley, 39. "Do you have any plans for next week? I don't. I'm living for today. We tried to teach Kim to live that way too."

In 1958, the Bradleys' first child, Susan, died of the disease at the age of 3. Three years later, it claimed 2-year-old Linda.

Kim suffered "five major heart attacks and five minor ones over the past four years," said Bradley, a pipefitter at Florida State University. "If we woke up in the morning and everything was all right, then we made plans for that day. If it wasn't all right, then we prepared for the worst."

The Bradleys have two surviving children—a natural daughter, Mary Faith, 11, and an adopted daughter,

Betty Michelle, 6.

"We're pretty sure Mary Faith won't be affected by the disease. The doctors said the odds against one member of a family getting it are 1,000-to-1, and the odds against two getting it are way higher," Bradley said.

He paused for a few seconds, then added, "But we've had three. The odds on that must be ... well, I just don't know. We'll just keep praying it won't be four."

MRS. JOSEPH EDWIN TOMLINSON

Miss Kathryn Anne Frericks Weds Joseph E. Tomlinson

The marriage of Miss Kathryn Anne Frericks and Mr. Joseph Edwin Tomlinson took place 6 p.m. Friday at St. Joseph Catholic Church in Circleville.

Father Thomas Cadden performed the double ring ceremony for the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward J. Frericks, 573 Willow Lane, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles L. Tomlinson Jr., 448 N. Court St.

Mr. Thomas Sullivan presented a half-hour program of nuptial selections preceding the wedding and accompanied himself at the organ during the ceremony when he sang "Ave Maria."

Two large baskets holding arrangements of white gladiolus, pink carnations, pompons, baby's breath and greenery stood on brass stands before the altar. Hurricane lamps with lighted candles, surrounded with greenery and off-white bows, marked the pews. Candelabra were placed on each side of the bridal couple.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She selected for her wedding an ivory formal length A-line gown with an empire bodice. A sunburst of Venice lace spread from the jewel neckline over a sheer yoke on the organza and satin gown. The sheer Juliet sleeves were accented with Venice and alencon lace. The bodice featured a satin waistband and alencon lace appliques with seed pearls. The appliques were repeated on the skirt which extended into a chapel length train edged in satin.

The bride's elbow length mantilla flowed from a bonnet edged in Venice lace and she carried a colonial bouquet of pink roses and carnations and baby's breath with a shower of off-white ribbon streamers.

Matron of honor was Mrs. Charles H. Waterman III. Miss Mary Ellen Frericks, Miss Anne Marie Frericks and Miss Susan Frericks, sisters of the

Marriage Vows Are Exchanged In Kingston Methodist Church

MRS. RICHARD EUGENE WOOD

The altar of the United Methodist Church in Kingston was decorated with arrangements of red roses and white mums for the wedding of Miss Conda Sue Phillips and Mr. Richard Eugene Wood.

The Rev. Pearl A. Casto performed the double ring ceremony for the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Forrest Eugene Phillips, Route 1, Circleville, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lynn G. Irvin, Lancaster, 1:30 p.m. Feb. 4th.

Mrs. Lucille Kelly, organist of Kingston, played a program of wedding music preceding the ceremony. The bride was given in marriage by her father. She was attired in a floor length gown of white organza. A Van Eyck silhouette with long, full, sheer puffed sleeves trimmed with beribboned Venice lace plunging from the high neckline to the hem of the skirt which swept to a wateau chapel train trimmed with lace. The bride's shoulder length veil of illusion fell from a face framing Venice lace petal bandeau trimmed with seed pearls and

Ash Wednesday

Observed By

WCSO Of Tarlton

Women's Society of Christian Service of Tarlton United Methodist Church met recently in the social room of the church.

In observance of Ash Wednesday, Mrs. Marie Pine used as the topic of devotion "Lent Comes Again." The Hymns "Blessed Assurance" and "The Old Rugged Cross" were sung and Mrs. Pine closed the devotions with prayer.

President, Mrs. Lucia Spangler, conducted the business meeting. A letter was read from the society's Korean orphan and Mrs. Betty McKunkin read a communication from Otterbein Home.

Mrs. Letha Murray sang a solo and read the poem, "Two Mothers" and Ella Mae Jenkins' reading was entitled "A Friend."

Refreshments were served by the hostesses: Mrs. Marie Karr, Mrs. Mabel Cox and Miss Ethel Reid to 22 members and eight guests.

she carried a bouquet of red roses tied with a white satin bow.

Maid of honor, Miss Mary Speakman, wore a formal length gown of French blue chiffon trimmed in sapphire velvet. Ruffles enhanced the neckline and cuffs of the long, full, sheer sleeves. She carried a bouquet of dark and light pink roses, mums and sweetheart roses.

Mr. Lynn G. Irvin served as best man for his son and Mr. Dan Phillips seated the guests.

The bride's mother wore a navy blue dress with white chiffon sleeves and navy accessories. Her corsage was of red sweetheart roses.

Mrs. Irvin was attired in an orange A-line dress with black accessories and wore a corsage of orange sweetheart roses.

A reception in the Fellowship Hall at the church immediately followed the ceremony. A three tiered pink wedding cake centered the table covered with a white linen cloth with pink and white streamers from which were hung wedding bells. Pink and green mints carried out the color theme.

Hostesses were Mrs. Clarence Price, Mrs. Wayne Garrison, Mrs. Michael Barnes and Mrs. Thomas Wood.

For a wedding trip to Birchwood Honeymoon Resort in Pennsylvania, the bride wore a brown knit dress with dark brown accessories. The couple now resides at Stoutsville.

The new Mrs. Wood is a graduate of Logan Elm High School and is employed by the Circleville General Electric Lamp Plant.

Mr. Wood graduated from Washington High School in Washington C.H., served in the U.S. Navy and is currently employed as an electrician at the RCA plant in Circleville.

Out-of-town guests at the wedding were from Enon, Mt. Sterling, Grove City, Lancaster and Chillicothe.

Matron of honor was Mrs. Charles H. Waterman III. Miss Mary Ellen Frericks, Miss Anne Marie Frericks and Miss Susan Frericks, sisters of the bride, were bridesmaids.

The attendants were Mrs. Richard Cree. The bridesmaids wore a long blue and white chiffon gowns. A satin band at the empire waistlines, a flounce edged in Venice lace and ruffles on the bodices enhanced the gowns. They carried hurricane lamps with pink candles encircled with greenery, baby's breath, miniature pink carnations, pompon mums and off-white streamers.

Mr. Steven Edstrom performed the duties of best man. Ushers were Mr. Mark Frericks and Mr. Tom Frericks, brothers of the bride; Mr. Charles L. Tomlinson III, brother of the bridegroom and Mr. Ronald Eitel. Mrs. Frericks complimented the wedding in a full aqua gown of chiffon. A sky blue panel accented by a large brooch at the portrait neckline completed the ensemble.

Mrs. Tomlinson was in a pale pink moire full length gown in the princess style with a v-neckline and long sleeves. Two rows of seed pearls trimmed the neckline and sleeves, and four rows at the bodice and waistline were entwined with silver. Corsages for both mothers were of gardenias and Stephanotis.

A reception at Pickaway Country Club immediately followed the ceremony. Hostesses assisting with the buffet supper were Miss Chris Edstrom, Miss Sue Schroer, Miss Irene Langenkamp and Mrs. Karen Eldridge of Dayton, a cousin of the groom.

As the couple left for a trip to West Palm Beach, Fla. the bride wore a blue and purple plaid dress with a flared skirt and blue ribbed bodice. The couple will reside at 131 S. Pickaway St. in Circleville.

The new Mrs. Tomlinson is a graduate of Circleville High School and Good Samaritan School of Nursing in Dayton. She is employed in the Coronary Care Unit at Berger Hospital.

Mr. Tomlinson, also a graduate of Circleville High School, is a senior at the Ohio State University. He is currently employed at the Third National Bank of Circleville.

Out-of-town guests at the wedding were from Fort Wayne, Ind.; Chicago, Ill.; Orlando and Coral Springs, Fla.; Columbus, Dayton, Kettering, Chillicothe, Cincinnati and Westerville, Ohio.

Band Enters Competition

By DEBHELSE
Teays Valley concert band and choir will travel to the district band and choir contest at Hastings Junior High School in Columbus on Saturday. The band will perform at 9 a.m. and the choir at 11 a.m.

Both the band and choir will participate in B-1 classification. The class is set according to the size of the school. Each group performs three numbers, one being required, the other two selected by the director.

The band, under the direction of Mr. Fred Brobst, will be playing "A Northern Legend," required selection; "Charter Oak," a march; and "Psalm 46." The required selection for the choir is "O Sing unto the Lord a New Song."

Miss Darlene Freeman, choir director, selected "I Hear a Voice A-Praying" and "Miserecordias Domini" to complete the choir's performance.

Those bands and choirs receiving superior ratings at the district contest will go to the state competition in April. Although the band has participated in state contests several times in past years, this is the first for a Teays Valley choir to sing in vocal competition.

Forsythe Is Teacher Of The Week

By ESTILL SALYERS
This week the Blue and Gold staff has chosen Philip Forsythe as the teacher of the week. Mr. Forsythe teaches world geography and American history. He lives with his wife and daughter, Beverly and Aimee Chaya, in Columbus.

Mr. Forsythe likes sports, red, steak, and the friendly response of the students in class. He dislikes study halls. He is the coach of the freshman football team and of the golf team.

Mr. Forsythe graduated from Ohio State University. He taught at TICO in the summer of 1970 and did his student teaching at Bexley High School.

His comment on Teays Valley is, "It has been a very enjoyable year. I feel the school is well run, and I find that with the right motivation most of the students are willing and sometimes eager to learn."

Home Ec Students Visit Laundry

Sixty-three girls enrolled in home economics visited a commercial laundry and dry cleaning plant recently. They were gone from 7:30 until 10 a.m.

There were fifty-three freshmen, nine sophomores, and one senior who made the tour.

Advisors for the group were Mrs. Ruth Tootle, teacher, and Miss Kathy LaRue, student teacher.

Juniors Making Plans For Annual Prom Night

By RHONDA WILCOXON
Juniors are getting the 1972-73 prom plans under way as they form committees for each part of the prom.

The committees, with the chairman, are as follows:

BAND: Chairman Bill Hines, Pat, Berger, Betty Brown, Lance Henson, Sue Glick, Jim Logsdon, Robin McManus, Jim Morehart, Roxanne Stir, and Mike Seitz.

Shakespeare Play Viewed By Class

On March 6, Mrs. Phoebe Engle took 37 composition students to Otterbein College Theatre to see Shakespeare's "Much Ado About Nothing!"

The almost-all student cast did a fine job presenting the Elizabethan play in acting as well as set design and costumes. Two performers in the play were professionals—Robert Stattel and Benedict and Jack as Dogberry.

"Much Ado About Nothing" is a play dealing with two plots. One is the job of getting Beatrice and Benedict to realize that they are in love. The other plot is a dirty trick to get Claudio not to marry Hero. Both plots end happily.

The students and Mrs. Engle felt it was an enjoyable, worthwhile experience.

Science Project Goes To State

Bonnie Hall, a freshman biology student, will represent Teays Valley High School at the State Science Fair in Columbus April 14.

Bonnie is a student of Dale Allen. She received a superior rating at the Central District Fair March 10, enabling her to move on to state competition.

Her project was entitled "Blood—Man's Living River." Her study included a survey of blood types of families who had lived in TVHS district and Pickaway County for several generations.

Bonnie's score was 37 points out of a possible 40. In Use of Scientific Method she was awarded the full 10 points.

Intruder Douses Woman With Water

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Mrs. Carol Cobb was still mad as a wet hen today after her confrontation with a prowler Thursday night.

She told police she heard someone break a bedroom window and went to investigate.

As she looked through the window, the prowler stuck a water hose through the broken pane and soaked her.

She retaliated by getting a shotgun and firing at the prowler, but apparently missed.

NOTICE OF PUBLIC SALE OF FARMS

Under authority of and pursuant to the terms of the Last Will and Testament of Laura D. Rush Bowsher, deceased, late of Pickaway County, Ohio, the undersigned, J. Denny Kitchen and Howard Koch, Administrators With the Will Annexed, do hereby notice of the sale at public auction on the 16th day of April, 1973, commencing at 2:00 o'clock P.M., at the front door of the Pickaway County Court House in Circleville, Ohio, the following described real estate:

TRACT 1: Situated in the County of Pickaway, in the State of Ohio, in the Township of Pickaway and described as follows: The West part of Section No. 12, Township 3, Range 22 W. S. Being the home farm of the late Wesley Rush, deceased, which he devised to his wife, Jane Rush, during her natural life, containing 160 acres of land, more or less.

Being the same premises described as Tract 2 in the Certificate for Transfer of Real Estate in the County of Pickaway, Ohio, recorded in Pickaway County, Ohio, Deed Records, Volume 148 at page 59.

Said premises being located approximately 10 miles south of the Corporation line of the City of Circleville, along U.S. Route No. 23, and on Postal Route No. One, Circleville, Ohio, and being adjacent to the Pickaway County Airport. The above described Tract 1 being subject to the Perpetual Easement for Limited Access Highway purposes as described and set forth in the Journal Entry in Case No. 21509 in the Court of Common Pleas of Pickaway County, Ohio, filed November 8, 1966, to which reference is made for greater certainty, also to the Agreement for Channel Change dated October 3, 1968, recorded in Pickaway County, Ohio, Deed Records, Volume 161 at page 807 as Document No. 9196, to which reference is also made for greater certainty.

Sioux Tribal Leader Man Caught In Middle

PINE RIDGE, S.D. (AP) — Richard Wilson, the elected leader of the 11,000 Oglala Sioux Indians on the Pine Ridge Reservation, has been the man in the middle of the siege at Wounded Knee.

He's been subjected to constant verbal abuse by the leaders of Indians occupying the hamlet and ignored by the federal officials who have come from Washington to settle the dispute.

But Wilson, a 38-year-old plumber turned reservation politician, is adamant in his intention to remain as tribal president and seek re-election next year.

"The night they took over that village, I wanted to go in there with my men and get them out," Wilson said in an interview.

"But the federal government ordered me not to and then put me under wraps for 10 days. The feds began briefing me this week for the first time, but they won't take my advice. I just have to listen."

Wilson said he had enough men to retake the village on the same night militant Indians under the leadership of the American Indian Movement occupied it, Feb. 27.

"There were 60 BIA (Bureau of Indian Affairs) police and about 75 concerned Oglala Sioux who would have helped me. We'd have had them out of there in no time," Wilson said.

There have been four attempts to impeach Wilson since he took office 11 months ago. All have failed and Wilson claims it's a record.

Solons Shy From Nixon Challenge

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Judiciary Committee members are showing no disposition to take President Nixon to court for refusing to let his official lawyer testify on the nomination of L. Patrick Gray III to be FBI director.

"The committee has other action it can take," said Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr., a member of the panel.

HONORED JAYCEES—Joe Tomlinson, Larry Lewis, and Roger Wolfe were recipients of the Outstanding Jaycee, Director and Officer awards at the local club's quarterly awards banquet Thursday at the L-K Restaurant. "Key Man" of the quarter was Mike Gilmore. In addition to the awards presented, Larry Eveland, club president, inducted Jim Riggelman into the membership.

DEAR ABBY: A very beautiful Brazilian visitor to New York wanted to have her stay extended, so she sought the advice of a Wall Street attorney. She gave him $500 in advance and he made an appointment with her to discuss the problem on a Saturday afternoon at a friend's borrowed apartment.

Shocked when she realized what was expected of her, the lady departed at once. She phoned the lawyer on Monday at his office and asked him to either make a serious effort to help her or to return her money.

The lawyer promised to arrange an interview for her with an immigration official who would help her. Then he bluntly told her that her chances for extending her stay would be small unless she spent at least one night with this man.

What recourse does this beautiful Brazilian woman have in such a predicament?

Flood Sweeps W. Va. Valley

BERWIND, W. Va. (AP) — Torrential rainfall spawned a wall of water that swept down a strip-mined southern West Virginia valley Friday night, uprooting two houses and a mobile home, according to state police and the office of Gov. Arch A. Moore Jr.

First reports from McDowell County authorities said a stripmine dam in the remote valley had burst, but two troopers who hiked up the hollow and an inspector from the state Department of Mines who followed them attributed the damage to flash flooding.

Trooper D. J. Meadows said the heavy rain washed debris down from the top of the hollow above Newtown Bottom near the West Virginia-Virginia border, clogging drains under a "dike-type" earthen road that crossed the valley.

He said, for example, that the committee could simply tell Nixon it would not act on Gray's nomination unless White House Counsel John W. Dean III appears for questioning.

Nixon said Thursday he does not believe the committee would hold Gray "hostage," but the members appear closely divided. The issue may come to a vote next week.

Ervin not only is a Judiciary Committee member but chairman of a committee created by the Senate to investigate the Watergate bugging and other alleged political espionage and sabotage in last year's presidential election.

All indications are that if an attempt is made to compel Dean's testimony, it will be done by Ervin's committee in the Watergate investigation, rather than by the Judiciary Committee in its consideration of Gray's nomination.

"If we are going to have this confrontation, I'd rather face it with the select committee," Ervin said. Other senators also said Ervin's committee would be the preferred battleground.

At a news conference Thursday, Nixon said he would not allow Dean to testify at any congressional hearing

Scali Lashes Cuban Attack On U.S. Policy In Panama

PANAMA (AP) — U.S. Ambassador John Scali took a relaxed attitude Thursday night toward criticism of the United States by his Panamanian hosts, but lashed back at a Cuban attack during the special U.N. Security Council meeting being held in Panama.

Foreign Minister Raul Roa of Cuba told the council the United States aspires to maintain "Green Beret factories" in the Panama Canal Zone. He characterized the United States as a nation with "clawing and perfidious appetites" around the world.

"The highest aspiration of the Panamanian people was always that of a canal for humanity and not for an

Nader Wrong On Corvair, Solon Says

WASHINGTON (AP) — A two-year study found no proof to Ralph Nader's charges that General Motors misled Congress about the safety of 1960-1963 Corvair cars, Sen. Abraham Ribicoff says.

Two aides to the Connecticut Democrat said in the study that GM fulfilled its "corporate responsibility" in developing and producing the early Chevrolet Corvairs because it believed their handling and stability made them "reasonably safe for driving on American roads."

Ribicoff said Thursday that Nader at first declined to read the report. But Ribicoff said the consumer advocate then changed his mind and said he would look at it over the weekend.

Ribicoff ordered the investigation after Nader complained that GM executives had given misleading testimony to the senator's Senate Subcommittee on Executive Reorganization at a hearing in 1966.

In the 30,000-word report, the aides said that Nader's criticism of GM and the early Corvairs were made "in good faith," and that there were "some defects" in GM's exercise of corporate responsibility.

"However," the aides said, "we believe the clear preponderance of the evidence, much of which was unavailable to Mr. Nader, is on the other side."

Only one of the impeachment attempts reached the 20-member tribal council, however, and it was rejected. One of the demands of the militants holding Wounded Knee is that Wilson be dismissed and a new election be held, a demand which federal officials have rejected flatly.

Wilson said the threats "really make it difficult to get something done," but he argues he has accomplished much during his short tenure in office.

He cites 500 houses either built or and invited a Supreme Court test of his stand on executive privilege.

"If the Senate feels they want a court test, we would welcome it," he said.

Although Dean, at the President's direction, declined the Judiciary Committee's invitation to testify on Gray's nomination, he offered to answer relevant questions submitted in writing.

The only way the committee could force a court test would be to subpoena Dean and then, if he refused to appear, seek to have the Senate cite him for contempt.

This is just what Ervin said he proposes to do if Nixon refuses to let Dean testify at the forthcoming Watergate investigation. Ervin said Dean would be "a very relevant witness" at his committee's hearings.

"If we get any information that any White House aide has any knowledge relevant to this investigation," Ervin said, "I will certainly recommend to the committee he be subpoenaed and if he fails to appear or refuses to give information after appearing, I will recommend to the Senate he be judged in contempt of Congress."

acquatic monopoly, a canal flanked by shipyards and factories, not by military bases and Green Beret factories," Roa declared.

Using his right of reply, Scali, in his debut before the council, called the Cuban "a self appointed spokesman of a people whose condition must arouse pity in us all."

"His accusations are so wild and reckless that they are unworthy of reply," President Nixon's new chief delegate to the U.N. said.

Scali's remarks were in marked contrast to his comments to newsmen on the welcoming speech earlier by Panama's strongman, Brig. Gen. Omar Torrijos. Setting the theme for the week-long council meeting, the first ever held in Latin America, the general accused the United States of maintaining a colonialist enclave in the heart of Panama.

"We ask the moral support of the world here present in this fight which is now reaching the limits of the patience of our people," Torrijos declared.

Scali said he was a "bit surprised" by the sharpness of the general's words.

"We hope he urges his people to cool it," he added. "The patience of his people is directly related to what he says."

Peru's foreign minister, Brig. Gen. Miguel Angel de la Flor, also joined in the attack on the United States. He blamed it for social and economic "frustrations" in Latin America and accused it of economic aggression in the region.

under construction in the eight reservation communities, a new tribal planning center for coordinating Indian programs and a "very good relationship with the Bureau of Indian Affairs" as pluses for his administration.

Wilson says tribal government is at the mercy of politicians in Washington and that complaints against him and previous leaders for failing to improve conditions on the reservation are not fair.

"We have had to fight for hunting and fishing rights and have spent millions of dollars fighting for our treaty rights in the courts. We might have spent that money instead for badly needed development of our lands and human resources," Wilson says.

He says the recent cutback in domestic spending by the Nixon administration was another bad blow to the Indians.

AIM leaders who led the occupation of Wounded Knee, a dozen miles northeast of here, charged Wilson with nepotism, corruption, false arrest of Indian dissenters on the reservation, protecting bootleggers and hiring what they term a "goon squad" with tribal funds to enforce order.

As tribal president, Wilson gets $13,500 annually for the full-time job. He supervises about 250 employees and administers such programs as Head Start, foster grandparent, low cost housing and home improvement, plus tribal law enforcement.

He says all tribal employees are "hired for their ability," but he admits "some of my friends and relatives have jobs."

He said his books are open to anyone who wants to look at how the $366,000 annual tribal budget is spent.

"I don't know any bootleggers. Anyone who breaks a tribal law will be arrested. And, I don't have a goon squad," he said.

Wilson estimates only about 100 reservation residents either sympathize with or belong to AIM. The militant leaders claim a majority of the residents are on their side. Wilson believes government work projects could solve many reservation problems.

"Our people could learn skills while earning money doing something worthwhile," he said.

He says for two weeks he's thought about little except the militants at Wounded Knee, whom he believes "threaten tribal governments all over the country."

"The longer the federal government permits this, the greater the threat."

Intruder Douses Woman With Water

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Mrs. Carol Cobb was still mad as a wet hen today after her confrontation with a prowler Thursday night.

She told police she heard someone break a bedroom window and went to investigate.

As she looked through the window, the prowler stuck a water hose through the broken pane and soaked her.

She retaliated by getting a shotgun and firing at the prowler, but apparently missed.

him that was a personal question which was none of his business. But what bothers me the most is that I am, and I was ashamed to admit it. Is it so terrible to be 21 and still a virgin?

ASHAMED

DEAR ASHAMED: Good grief, no! What bothers me the most is that today so many people are ashamed of what they used to be proud of.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I were married for four years and had one child. Then we separated and I met "Mr. X." Abby, I never knew love-making could be so beautiful and fulfilling.

Because of the child we decided to give our marriage another chance, but I can't forget "Mr. X."

My husband's desires are much greater now than before, but he still leaves me unfulfilled and with a sick headache. I can't tell him that as a lover, he is a failure. He just wouldn't understand. Now, I have a second lover who is very much like "Mr. X."

I want my marriage to succeed, Abby, but I am only 25 years old, and I don't want to seek out lovers and sneak around corners. I know that my own mother was never satisfied with ONE MAN. She had six children, and we all have different fathers, and it frightens me to think I may be following my mother's footsteps.

I really want to have a good sex life with my husband, but he just isn't satisfying me. How can I get this across to him?

FRUSTRATED

DEAR FRUSTRATED: Tell him! Tell him! A marriage counselor (or your own doctor) can help you by plain talk and recommended reading material. You, along with many others, may find that your happiness lies right under your eyes back in your own backyard.

Cards Could Become Contenders

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) — Pitching, plus an anticipated higher run production, could re-establish the St. Louis Cardinals as contenders in the National League this season.

But Manager Red Schoendienst, beginning his ninth season, has an unfamiliar problem at shortstop and an outfield that is suspect in bringing the Cards back.

"In the past, we've always had Dal Maxvill we could fall back on," commented Schoendienst in respect to shortstop, the club's biggest question. "Now Maxvill's gone ..."

Maxvill and outfielder Matty Alou were shuttled to the world champion Oakland A's late last season.

Shortstop Ray Busse, 24, is 6 feet 4 and weighs 185 pounds, but his physical assets may be offset by lingering shoulder difficulties and undemonstrated range.

Busse is receiving first crack at shortstop on the basis of promising productivity at bat, but the job next month could belong to Mick Kellener, Mike Tyson or Dwain Anderson.

In the outfield, the Cards have speed in Lou Brock in left and Jose Cruz in center—but also a propensity for costly errors.

Schoendienst is more sure of Bernie Carbo in right.

Defensive strengths of the club, which ranked eighth among National League entries in the category last season, are at catcher, with aggressive Ted Simmons, and at third base, with Joe Torre.

St. Louis pitching, despite an injury that shelved promising Scipio Spinks half the season, improved in 1972 and should be stable if the defense and hitting hold up.

Bob Gibson still has few peers at 37. Rick Wise was better than his 16-16 record of last year and Reggie Cleveland, 14-15, needs only to cut down on high sliders to win more.

Spinks, 5-5, is a strong fourth starter. The fifth spot will go to Al Santorini, Don Durham, Jim Bibby or Alan Foster, all righthanders.

Schoendienst has veterans Diego Segui and Wayne Granger for right-handed relief, but is thin from the left side, where the top prospects are rookie John Andrews, Rich Folkers and Al Hrabosky.

Childress Tops 2nd-Day Qualifiers

ROCKINGHAM, N.C. (AP) — Richard Childress, a 27-year-old comparative newcomer to bigtime racing, paced second-day qualifying Friday for the $100,000 Carolina 500 mile stock car race.

Childress, from Winston-Salem, N.C., drove a Chevrolet around the one-mile North Carolina Motor Speedway at 131.595 miles per hour to win the 16th position in Sunday's 40-car starting order.

It was the 10th fastest official speed of two days of time trials and had he recorded it 24 hours earlier, Childress would have started the eighth annual Carolina 500 squarely in the middle of the front line contenders.

Friday's second best qualifier was Bill Dennis of Glen Allen, Va., the 1970 Grand National rookie of the year. Dennis posted 130.843 m.p.h. in a Chevrolet. Buddy Arrington, a veteran driver from Martinsville, Va., placed third at 130.150 in a Dodge.

With 30 of the available positions now secure, the remaining 10 starters will be picked in time trials Saturday.

National Cage Regionals To Be Settled Today

By KEN RAPPOPORT
Associated Press Writer

The UCLA Bruins have the momentum and the San Francisco Dons the motive today in the NCAA basketball playoffs.

Winners of six straight national championships and 72 straight games, the Bruins take on the revenge-bent Dons in the finals of the West Regionals.

"We are confident we can beat UCLA if we play together," says San Francisco guard Mike Quick.

The last time they met, the Dons were buried under a Bruin blitz, 92-64.

While UCLA and San Francisco decide the championship of the West, three other regions were to be settled today.

In the other regional finals—all afternoon games—Providence played Maryland in the East at Charlotte, N.C.; Indiana opposed Kentucky in the Midwest at Nashville, Tenn., and Memphis State tackled Kansas State in the Midwest at Houston.

The four winners go onto the championship round in St. Louis next weekend.

UCLA made it to the regional finals with a 98-81 victory over Arizona State in the semifinals Thursday night. San Francisco moved up with a 76-67 victory over third-ranked Long Beach State.

Maryland crushed Syracuse 91-75 in the East semis and Providence made the finals with an 87-65 victory over Penn for a 16-game streak.

Steve Downing leads surprising Indiana against Kentucky, led by Kevin Grevey. Indiana is a deliberate offensive team while Kentucky likes to run and gun.

Indiana gained the Midwest finals by stunning Marquette 75-69 while Kentucky moved up with a 106-100 overtime triumph over Austin Peay.

Memphis State is counting on a good rebounding game to beat Kansas State in the Midwest.

Memphis State's control of the backboards helped the Tigers trounce South Carolina 90-76 in the Midwest semifinals.

"We have a challenge to keep from getting killed inside," said Kansas State Coach Jack Hartman, whose team beat Southwestern Louisiana 66-63 Thursday night.

At Evansville, Kentucky Wesleyan won the NCAA College Division championship, beating Tennessee State 78-76 in overtime. Jyronna Walston sank a free throw and a basket in the last 45 seconds of the overtime period to give the Panthers the victory.

Magic Number Dwindles For Prep Cage Victors

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The magic number has dwindled to three for Cleveland East Tech, Columbus Ready and Gnadenhutten Indian Valley South in their quest for second straight Ohio high school basketball tournament titles.

The 1972 championship trio posted impressive verdicts in regional semifinals Friday night and each needs three more victories for the 1973 crowns.

The original list of more than 800 teams is down to eight in each class for the regional finals tonight. The survivors march into the state tour-namment next week on the Ohio State campus.

Of the 24 survivors at this stage, 11 were ranked in The Associated Press top tens during the regular season.

East Tech, 20-2, shot into a 17-4 lead and handed Barborton its first loss in 23 games 77-72. Lawrence Bolden pumped in 23 points and his nephew, fellow starting guard Antonio Bolden, chipped in with 14 points, in the Cleveland Class AAA Regional triumph.

Ready, up to a 20-3 record, led virtually the entire game and sidelined Wellsville 65-56 in the Steubenville Class AA Regional. Guard Jimmy Jones paced the Silver Knights with 27 points.

In the Athens Class A Regional, Indian Valley South ran its winning streak to 49 games over the last two years, crushing Portsmouth Notre Dame 73-56.

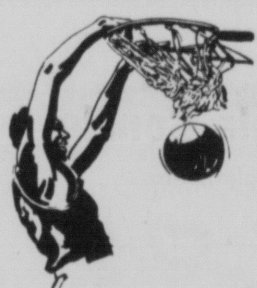

Four players reached double figures for the 1972 small school champions, headed by Chuck McComb's 18 points. Indian Valley South is 23-0 this season.

In regional finals tonight, East Tech faces Elyria, 20-3, Ready tests Steubenville Catholic, 22-1, and Indian Valley South draws fellow league member Strasburg, 20-3.

Three other former champions remained in the running with victories Friday night.

In Class AAA, Newark, the state ruler in 1936, 1938 and 1943, ousted Findlay 45-41 and Columbus South, the 1965 champ, eliminated Washington Court House Miami Trace 53-42, both in the Columbus Regional.

Strasburg, the 1967 Class A kingpin, ousted Chesapeake 60-45 at Athens.

Attention Mrs. Robinson: Joe DiMaggio may be coming home.

In the movie The Graduate, Mrs. Robinson wanted to know where Joe DiMaggio had gone.

Now, the Yankee Clipper may be returning to New York, where he played the baseball that earned him a place in the Hall of Fame.

DiMaggio said Friday he is considering a front office job with the New York Yankees.

Braves Honor Cage Teams With Banquet

The 1972-73 cage squads of Logan Elm High School and McDowell were honored Friday night at a banquet at the McDowell School.

Tom Sykes received the Circleville Herald's Bob Bowsher Award as the most outstanding senior basketball player in Pickaway County. The blond sharpshooter set 17 records in his career on the Logan Elm varsity.

Tim Justice, another stellar performer for the Braves, received the foul shooting award with a better than 83 per cent performance from the charity stripe. He also tallied 785 points in his high school career to become the second leading scorer in Logan Elm history. Sykes took over as leading scorer for the Braves with a total of 1,072 markers in his varsity stint.

Logan Elm Coach Dave Little introduced the members of the squad and made the presentations.

Coach Harry Hoffer made the introduction of his seventh grade team. Vic Pontius handled the duties for his eighth grade team and Richard Halley introduced the members of his freshmen cage team.

Cheerleaders for all the teams, team managers and allied personnel were also honored at the awards fete.

Circleville Sets Sports Banquet

The Circleville High School Winter Sports Banquet will be held 6:30 p.m. Tuesday at the high school cafeteria.

The basketball and wrestling teams will be honored at the event. Larry Cook, head football coach at Circleville, will be the main speaker.

It will be a carry-in dinner and the public is invited. Everyone must provide their own table service.

Brooks Yates Nipped By Pioneer School

Brooks Yates lost a close decision, 26-22, to Pioneer School of Ross County in a basketball game played Thursday.

Ricky Rhodes, of Brooks Yates, was the leading scorer in the contest with 14 points, Jack Ball tallied six points and had eight assists while Alfred Heeter scored two points. Brooks Yates trailed at halftime, 14-10.

They now have a 0-2 record for the season and will play Hillsboro Wednesday.

Aspromonte Not Happy

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — Intrasquad games may be fun and games to some people, but not Cleveland Indians manager Ken Aspromonte.

The Tribe skipper was upset after several southpaw hurlers, vying for a job on the staff, and two non-roster catchers turned in lackluster performances Friday.

"I warned them all before we went out on the field," said Aspromonte, "that this was not going to be a joyride; that it was more than just an open date workout."

"But some of them didn't pay attention and they're going to be losers if they don't shape up soon," he said.

Left-handers Dennis Riddleberger, Mike Kilkenny and Tom Hilgendorf, righty Ed Farmer and catchers Roger Freed and George Pena were singled out for their lack of sharpness.

DiMaggio Eyes Post With Yankees

It's been 22 years since DiMaggio last pulled on the Yankee pinstripes.

Another Yankee, relief ace Sparky Lyle ended his holdout for an estimated $75,000 and promptly went out and threw hard for 15 minutes.

"I'm happy," said the lefthanded bullpen star who posted a 9-5 record, 1.92 earned run average and American League record 35 saves last season.

The rest of Friday's news wasn't so pleasant for the Yanks. The Texas

Rangers tagged Steve Kline and Casey Cox for five runs apiece, lashed out 16 hits, including a three-run homer by Tom Grieve, and romped to a 10-3 exhibition victory.

Elsewhere, Dave Concepcion of the Cincinnati Reds, hit a sacrifice fly in the 11th to give the Reds a 5-4 exhibition baseball win over the Boston Red Sox.

Thursday, his ninth-inning homer provided a one-run victory over Pittsburgh.

Cincinnati's World Series conquerors, the world champion Oakland A's, also won a squeaker, edging the Chicago Cubs 3-2 on Sal Bando's RBI single in the eventing inning.

The San Francisco Giants turned two San Diego throwing errors into a pair of 10th-inning runs and beat the Padres 5-3.

The St. Louis Cardinals suffered a double setback. Mike Ryan slammed a three-run homer and a run-producing single as the Philadelphia Phillies beat one team of Cardinals 11-5 while Tony Muser drove in three runs and Eddie Fisher pitched five shutout innings to pace the Chicago White Sox past another St. Louis group 5-3.

The Montreal Expos erupted for seven runs in the seventh inning to roar from behind and defeat the Houston Astros 8-5.

The Detroit Tigers scored three runs in the seventh inning, two unearned, to defeat the Kansas City Royals 8-6.

Richie Zisk slammed a three-run homer off Dave McNally as the Pittsburgh Pirates scored five times in the first inning and trounced the Baltimore Orioles 7-1.

California's Nolan Ryan wildpitched one Milwaukee run across and Gorman Thomas drilled a home run as the Brewers blanked the Angels 2-0 on the six-hit pitching of Jim Slaton, Billy Champion and Carlos Velazquez.

Bill Buckner tripled, singled and drove in two runs to lead the Los Angeles Dodgers to a 3-2 victory over the Minnesota Twins. Ted Martinez singled home one run and scored another in pacing the New York Mets over the Atlanta Braves 2-1.

Photographer Art Rogers of the Los Angeles Times made this sequence.

Squires Top Carolina

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

"Carolina has a great ball club. They've had a great year but now they're in a slump," said George Irvine after his Virginia Squires handed the Cougars their fourth American Basketball Association defeat in a row 123-118, Friday night.

The Squire forward scored 26 points to add to Jure Irving's game high 28 points.

In other ABA action, Indiana beat the New York Nets 98-89 and San Diego defeated Dallas 113-107.

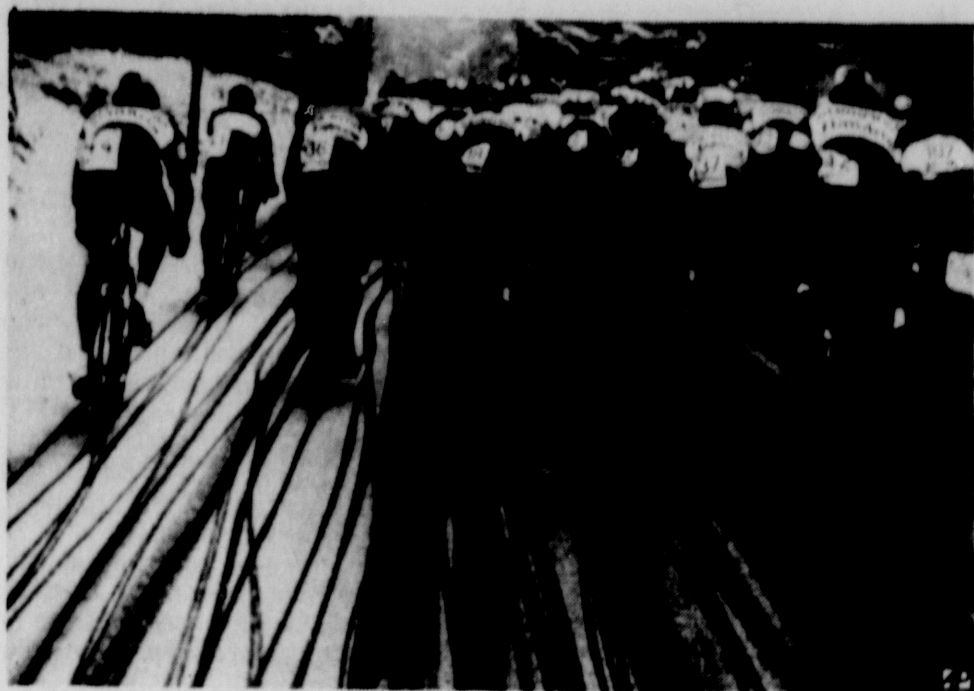

In the National Basketball

Association, Atlanta beat Phoenix 135-127, Baltimore edged Boston 103-97, Milwaukee stopped Chicago 99-91 in overtime, Cleveland defeated Kansas City-Omaha 114-99, Detroit crushed Buffalo 121-100, New York topped Los Angeles 109-98, Houston drubbed Portland 141-128 and Seattle upended Golden State 116-106.

Carolina, the East Division leader, trailed 69-54 at halftime, then took the lead at 83-82 late in the third period only to fall behind 91-87 for the start of the last quarter.

With the score tied 117-117, Mike Barr put Virginia ahead to stay on a driving layup with 40 seconds left and the Squires finished out their scoring with four points from the foul line by Irvine.

The Circleville High School Winter Sports Banquet will be held 6:30 p.m. Tuesday at the high school cafeteria.

The basketball and wrestling teams will be honored at the event. Larry Cook, head football coach at Circleville, will be the main speaker.

It will be a carry-in dinner and the public is invited. Everyone must provide their own table service.

Brooks Yates Nipped By Pioneer School

Brooks Yates lost a close decision, 26-22, to Pioneer School of Ross County in a basketball game played Thursday.

Ricky Rhodes, of Brooks Yates, was the leading scorer in the contest with 14 points, Jack Ball tallied six points and had eight assists while Alfred Heeter scored two points. Brooks Yates trailed at halftime, 14-10.

They now have a 0-2 record for the season and will play Hillsboro Wednesday.

Aspromonte Not Happy

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — Intrastate games may be fun and games to some people, but not Cleveland Indians manager Ken Aspromonte.

The Tribe skipper was upset after several southpaw hurlers, vying for a job on the staff, and two non-roster catchers turned in lackluster performances Friday.

"I warned them all before we went out on the field," said Aspromonte, "that this was not going to be a joyride; that it was more than just an open date workout."

"But some of them didn't pay attention and they're going to be losers if they don't shape up soon," he said.

Left-handers Dennis Riddleberger, Mike Kilkenny and Tom Hilgendorf, righty Ed Farmer and catchers Roger Freed and George Pena were singled out for their lack of sharpness.

Squires Top Carolina

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
"Carolina has a great ball club. They've had a great year but now they're in a slump," said George Irvine after his Virginia Squires handed the Cougars their fourth American Basketball Association defeat in a row 123-118, Friday night.

The Squire forward scored 26 points to add to Julius Irving's game high 28 points.

In other ABA action, Indiana beat the New York Nets 98-89 and San Diego defeated Dallas 113-107.

In the National Basketball

Association, Atlanta beat Phoenix 135-127, Baltimore edged Boston 103-97, Milwaukee stopped Chicago 99-91 in overtime, Cleveland defeated Kansas City-Omaha 114-99, Detroit crushed Buffalo 121-100, New York topped Los Angeles 109-98, Houston drubbed Portland 141-128 and Seattle upended Golden State 116-106.

Carolina, the East Division leader, trailed 69-54 at halftime, then took the lead at 83-82 late in the third period only to fall behind 91-87 for the start of the last quarter.

With the score tied 117-117, Mike Barr put Virginia ahead to stay on a driving layup with 40 seconds left and the Squires finished out their scoring with four points from the foul line by Irvine.

CARROLL RICHTER'S
horoscope
from the Carroll Richter Institute

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Today's Full Moon is excellent for giving you a greater insight into the philosophy of life and school of thought that is most satisfactory to you, also a better understanding of other persons and their aims. You have the chance now to get your surroundings in the pink of condition, so make this an active time.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) A bigwig is observing how you are treating others, so be kind and at your best today. Plan to meet bigwig's expectations in the future also. Show you are an intelligent, hard-working person.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) You have the inspiration now to gain your fondest aspirations and have a happy time at such work as well. Try to assist others who have problems and hardly know what to do about them. Show you really care about them.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) You can handle home affairs easily and in an intelligent fashion now. Add to the harmony there at this time. Plan how to manage responsibilities that have bothered you for some time.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Get out to places where you can secure right data and be with persons who help you gain your highest aims. Have a good time with friends you like and admire. Do not neglect clever relatives.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) By imagining and planning for greater prosperity now, you can realize just that in the near future. Consult with a financial expert and get the right advice, help. Show you are an able and ambitious person.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Fine day for the social when you can make an excellent impression on bigwigs and those who can be very important in your life. Attend that fine big affair, but make sure you dress beautifully. Converse well, also.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Think along very philosophical lines today and put your life on a more satisfying and inspiring plane. Use your intuitive faculties for they are most accurate. Get the right results with everyone.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Good day to get in touch with friends with whom you can have greater rapport and mutual benefits. Much sociability can bring new friends into your life who are most worthwhile. Be charming.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Do those things that can bring you the goodwill of higher-ups and government officials. Show you are a philanthropist. Avoid one who is jealous of you and drive with utmost care.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Good day to contact persons of true wisdom and learn a great deal from them, get the advice you need. Some new associate can give you the support for your plans you want. Take it easy tonight and get to bed early.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Sit quietly by yourself awhile and let your intuitive perceptions go to work for you, and you know how to take care of problems well. Cement better relations with closest tie. Be kind but firm.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Sit down with an associate or one who opposes you and talk over how to get along much better in the future. Then get out for recreation or to make a better name for yourself with the public in general. Read some in p.m.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be one of those delightful young people who likes to look after his or her health and will have much energy and fine wholesome ideas that can lead to big success during the lifetime. However, you must teach early not to express ideas unless asked for, since this could alienate others whose ideas are far from lofty. Any of the highest professions are fine here depending on the strongest interest, which could be the religious side of life.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

SleepyDriver LetsCar Stray

A 23-year-old Columbus man fell asleep while driving and woke up with a shock after his small auto collided with a utility pole along Route 56 about 3:40 a.m. today.

Gerald Lee McNichols was taken to Berger Hospital where his scalp wound was cleaned and the bruises on his left knee were checked, but the man was sent home after treatment.

McNichols' auto did not fare so well. It received serious damage to the front end and undercarriage from its impact with the pole. Scene of the accident was along Route 56 less than a half mile south of Circleville-Tarlton Road

Money Pilfered At Gas Station

City police are investigating the theft of $84 from the Clark Service Station Friday afternoon.

Sonny Hopkins, station owner, told police he was filling the cigarette machine at the gasoline pumps when two men and a woman entered the office to make a telephone call. When Hopkins returned to the office he found the money was missing.

Dennis M. Lester informed police that his bicycle had been stolen from High St. School Friday.

Driver Injured In City Mishap

A one-car accident 4:53 p.m. Thursday on Route 56 East, 200 feet west of the city limits, resulted in injury to the driver.

Harold M. Temple, 24, 446 Watt St., was injured when his westbound car dropped off the berm of the road and struck two guard posts, according to the report at the police department. He was taken to Berger Hospital for treatment.

Pumpkin Show VP Returns From Charro Days

EDITOR'S NOTE: Mr. and Mrs. Ned Harden, 146 Park Place, recently returned from Brownsville, Texas, where they had visited Charro Days Fiesta. Harden was one of the jurymen for the annual Tamale Cookoff. The following article was written by Sam Huddleston of Brownsville concerning the fiesta and the tamale jurymen.

BROWNSVILLE, Texas—Recently this lovely old Rio Grande city by the sea had its annual Charro Days Fiesta. There were parades, dances and merriment more than somewhat.

Schools were closed for the occasion and crowds overflowed the downtown area so thick you couldn't have shoved a knitting needle between them. Many were dressed in the colorful garments worn by the Mexican cowboys and their favorite señoritas. Thousands of northern folks who are here for the winter got the fiesta spirit . . . It was a case of the Yankees taking our town without firing a shot.

The Charro Fiesta is traditionally opened with the "Grito", a Mexican cousin to the rebel yell. When properly done it will loosen mortar in adobe brick walls. Actually, the "Grito" is more of an emotion and is best done when vocal chords are well anointed with tequila, and incendiary drink popular here on the Mexican border.

One of our fiesta's colorful events was the Concurso de Tamale de Cocina (Tamale Cookoff to you gringos). There was a tamale jury to determine which señorita-senora composed the most piquant tamale.

Many jurymen were from out of town, like H. Allen Smith of literary fame whom I affectionately refer to as "old H.A.". In addition to being a former Ohioan he is probably America's most accomplished humorist. Then there was David Snell, former Senior Editor of Life Magazine.

Tamale contestants complained about the mental and physical condition of some of our tamale jurymen. One showed up looking worse than six miles of bad roads. He attributed his condition to the fact that his cocktails had been contaminated with bad ice.

Another jurymen was from way up north, a place called San Antonio I think. He looked like someone had pulled him through a keyhole backwards. This one's excuse was that the bartender had continually bruised the bourbon in his highballs by shaking them too much.

Another member of this august body of jurymen had a strange affliction. There were rather large knots around his throat. Our staff doctor Ernest Hart diagnosed them as oversized cocktail olives which were too big to swallow.

H. Allen Smith, a stainless steel moralist and devout temperance worker, tried to eliminate himself from jury duty on the grounds that our drinking water had completely ruined his health, and that having to consume it was one form of torture the Spanish Inquisitors had overlooked. He further hinted that with minkind drinking Rio Grande water the collapse of civilization was at hand.

It seemed as though our jurymen were cursed. A Mr. Ned Harden of pumpkin fame in Circleville, Ohio, was ambushed by a band of irate Apaches south of Lampasas. He showed up in Brownsville with an arrow through his head. Local doctors refused to remove it for fear of additional brain damage. This condition possibly could have impaired his equilibrium. At times he wobbled like Houston's Astrodome had been dropped on his shoulders.

Seriously, I would like to say a few thousand words of praise about Sally and Ned Harden who are associated with Circleville's annual Pumpkin Show. We had this radiantly alive couple in our home for breakfast recently. They are truly God's wonderful people. We loved every minute of this company. All too soon the time came to tell them goodbye. May they live till my wife admits her true age.

If Pumpkin Show officials need any jurymen on their baking trials tell them I would like to serve. My specialty is pumpkin pies.

New Personnel Will Be Hired For PRJVS

In addition to setting a formal groundbreaking ceremony for the vocational center, the PRJVS board selected brick to be used on the exterior of the building at its meeting Thursday.

The brick selected will have a relatively smooth surface and a mixed tan and pink color.

The board adopted a permanent 1973 appropriation measure during the meeting, which is essentially the same as the temporary appropriation measure adopted in January, according to Superintendent Paul Hydell. The general fund total for the permanent appropriation is $428,501.

Hydell reviewed the next steps in preparing for the vocational school, which involve acquiring equipment, developing personnel policies and employing additional personnel.

In mid-summer, the board is planning to employ a building and ground supervisor to work with the contractors. This allows him to lean the mechanical systems of the building as it is constructed.

The supervisor will also work on acquiring surplus equipment and other equipment for the school during the construction period and will be responsible for custodial and maintenance operations once the building is completed.

FSB Escapee Sentenced In Car Theft

Keith James Kingsley, the escapee from the Fairfield School for Boys who stole the auto of a Circleville man, was sentenced to the Ohio Youth Commission.

Judge Guy Cline recommended that the youth be placed in TICO, one division of the OYC. Young Kingsley stole a 1962 model sedan owned by Harry Garrett, Walnut St., and had driven it to West Virginia before he was apprehended.

For violating his probation, an 18-year-old Ashville boy was granted a continuance and ordered to complete 100 hours of community work. The youth had served four months in the Mansfield Youth Rehabilitation Center for receiving stolen property and is out on shock probation.

Another Ashville youth, also 18, had his probation continued to March, 1976 for failing to make regular reports to his probation officer. The youth had also served time in the Mansfield Youth Center for receiving stolen property. The court also ordered the boy to perform 100 hours of community work within the limits of his probation.

Four boys, charged with an adult for entering the Westfall High School grounds to steal gasoline, pleaded guilty to the charges and were made probationers with the court for three years and told to perform 100 hours of community work. The boys, age 15, 16 and 17, were from Williamsport, Circleville and New Holland areas.

Twenty-five dollar fines were suspended for an Orient boy, 17 and a Route 2, Williamsport boy, 18. The youth from Orient was charged with consuming an alcoholic beverage and the other boy for purchasing beverages with alcoholic content, both at an Ashville tavern.

Steven Butcher, 22, of Harrisburg, was found guilty of failing to support his son. The court imposed a five year probation and suspended a six month sentence to the county jail.

Release from detention was granted for a Darby boy, 17, who is charged with petit larceny, trespassing, unlawful disposal of trash and violating his previous probation.

A 16-year-old Circleville teen was placed on probation for one year for attempting to take a stereo tape from a local business establishment.

Adult Courses Slated At OU-L

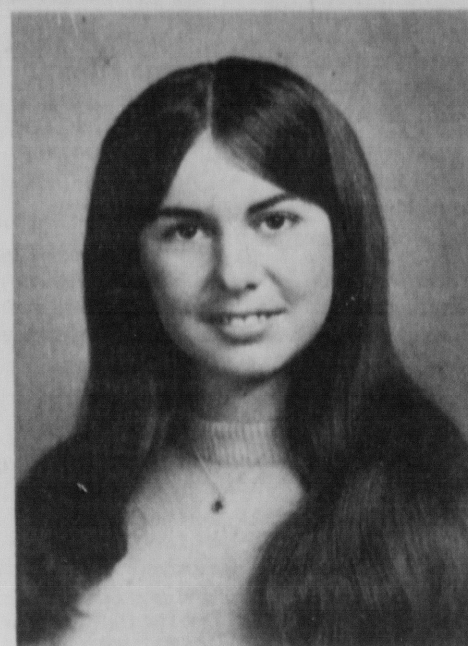

A list of non-credit courses being offered during the spring quarter has been announced by the Office of Continuing Education of Lancaster OU.

Courses included in the schedule are: Blueprint Reading; Shorthand I; Typing III; Real Estate Principles II; Real Estate Seminar; Parent Effectiveness Training; Flower Arrangement Demonstration and Speed Reading.

Most of the classes are scheduled to start during the week of March 26. Brochures and additional information regarding specific courses can be obtained by calling 654-6711, extension 27.

Since enrollment in several courses will be limited, registration should be completed at least five days before the starting date of the course.

Driver Injured As Truck Rolls Off Route 56

Robert M. Short, 43, Route 1, Laurelville, refused treatment for numerous contusions and abrasions to his head and shoulders after he demolished his farm truck 5:18 p.m. Friday on Route 56 west of Shoemaker Road.

According to the accident report compiled by Pickaway County Sheriff's Deputies Bill and Don Thompson, Short was driving southeast on Route 56. His truck apparently skidded off the right side of the road as he applied his brakes in a right curve.

The truck rolled over for 121 feet off the right side before coming to rest.

SleepyDriver LetsCar Stray

A 23-year-old Columbus man fell asleep while driving and woke up with a shock after his small auto collided with a utility pole along Route 56 about 3:40 a.m. today.

Gerald Lee McNichols was taken to Berger Hospital where his scalp wound was cleaned and the bruises on his left knee were checked, but the man was sent home after treatment.

McNichols' auto did not fare so well. It received serious damage to the front end and undercarriage from its impact with the pole. Scene of the accident was along Route 56 less than a half mile south of Circleville-Tarilton Road.

Money Pilfered At Gas Station

City police are investigating the theft of $84 from the Clark Service Station Friday afternoon.

Sonny Hopkins, station owner, told police he was filling the cigarette machine at the gasoline pumps when two men and a woman entered the office to make a telephone call. When Hopkins returned to the office he found the money was missing.

Dennis M. Lester informed police that his bicycle had been stolen from High St. School Friday.

Driver Injured In City Mishap

A one-car accident 4:53 p.m. Thursday on Route 56 East, 200 feet west of the city limits, resulted in injury to the driver.

Harold M. Temple, 24, 446 Watt St., was injured when his westbound car dropped off the berm of the road and struck two guard posts, according to the report at the police department. He was taken to Berger Hospital for treatment.

Pumpkin Show VP Returns From Charro Days

EDITOR'S NOTE: Mr. and Mrs. Ned Harden, 146 Park Place, recently returned from Brownsville, Texas, where they had visited Charro Days Fiesta. Harden was one of the jurymen for the annual Tamale Cookoff. The following article was written by Sam Huddleston of Brownsville concerning the fiesta and the tamale jurymen.

BROWNSVILLE, Texas—Recently this lovely old Rio Grande city by the sea had its annual Charro Days Fiesta. There were parades, dances and merriment more than somewhat.

Schools were closed for the occasion and crowds overflowed the downtown area so thick you couldn't have shoved a knitting needle between them. Many were dressed in the colorful garments worn by the Mexican cowboys and their favorite señoritas. Thousands of northern folks who are here for the winter got the fiesta spirit. . . . It was a case of the Yankees taking our town without firing a shot.

The Charro Fiesta is traditionally opened with the "Grito," a Mexican cousin to the rebel yell. When properly done it will loosen mortar in adobe brick walls. Actually, the "Grito" is more of an emotion and is best done when vocal chords are well annointed with tequila, and incendiary drink popular here on the Mexican border.

One of our fiesta's colorful events was the Concurso de Tamale de Cocina (Tamale Cookoff to you gringos). There was a tamale jury to determine which señorita-senora composed the most piquant tamale.

Many jurymen were from out of town, like H. Allen Smith of literary fame whom I affectionately refer to as "old H.A.". In addition to being a former Ohioan he is probably America's most accomplished humorist. Then there was David Snell, former Senior Editor of Life Magazine.

Tamale contestants complained about the mental and physical condition of some of our tamale jurymen. One showed up looking worse than six miles of bad roads. He attributed his condition to the fact that his cocktails had been contaminated with bad ice.

Another jurymen was from way up north, a place called San Antonio I think. He looked like someone had pulled him through a keyhole backwards. This one's excuse was that the bartender had continually bruised the bourbon in his highballs by shaking them too much.

Another member of this august body of jurymen had a strange affliction. There were rather large knots around his throat. Our staff doctor Ernest Hart diagnosed them as oversized cocktail olives which were too big to swallow.

H. Allen Smith, a stainless steel moralist and devout temperance worker, tried to eliminate himself from jury duty on the grounds that our drinking water had completely ruined his health, and that having to consume it was one form of torture the Spanish Inquisitors had overlooked. He further hinted that with mankind drinking Rio Grande water the collapse of civilization was at hand.

It seemed as though our jurymen were cursed. A Mr. Ned Harden of pumpkin fame in Circleville, Ohio, was ambushed by a band of irate Apaches south of Lampasas. He showed up in Brownsville with an arrow through his head. Local doctors refused to remove it for fear of additional brain damage. This condition possibly could have impaired his equilibrium. At times he wobbled like Houston's Astrodome had been dropped on his shoulders.

Seriously, I would like to say a few thousand words of praise about Sally and Ned Harden who are associated with Circleville's annual Pumpkin Show. We had this radiantly alive couple in our home for breakfast recently. They are truly God's wonderful people. We loved every minute of this company. All too soon the time came to tell them goodbye. May they live till my wife admits her true age.

If Pumpkin Show officials need any jurymen on their baking trials tell them I would like to serve. My specialty is pumpkin pies.

New Personnel Will Be Hired For PRJVS

In addition to setting a formal groundbreaking ceremony for the vocational center, the PRJVS board selected brick to be used on the exterior of the building at its meeting Thursday.

The brick selected will have a relatively smooth surface and a mixed tan and pink color.

The board adopted a permanent 1973 appropriation measure during the meeting, which is essentially the same as the temporary appropriation measure adopted in January, according to Superintendent Paul Hydel.

The general fund total for the permanent appropriation is $428,501. Hydel reviewed the next steps in preparing for the vocational school, which involve acquiring equipment, developing personnel policies and employing additional personnel.

In mid-summer, the board is planning to employ a building and ground supervisor to work with the contractors. This allows him to lean the mechanical systems of the building as it is constructed.

The supervisor will also work on acquiring surplus equipment and other equipment for the school during the construction period and will be responsible for custodial and maintenance operations once the building is completed.

FSB Escapee Sentenced In Car Theft

Keith James Kingsley, the escapee from the Fairfield School for Boys who stole the auto of a Circleville man, was sentenced to the Ohio Youth Commission.

Judge Guy Cline recommended that the youth be placed in TICO, one division of the OYC. Young Kingsley stole a 1962 model sedan owned by Harry Garrett, Walnut St., and had driven it to West Virginia before he was apprehended.

For violating his probation, an 18-year-old Ashville boy was granted a continuance and ordered to complete 100 hours of community work. The youth had served four months in the Mansfield Youth Rehabilitation Center for receiving stolen property and is out on shock probation.

Another Ashville youth, also 18, had his probation continued to March, 1976 for failing to make regular reports to his probation officer. The youth had also served time in the Mansfield Youth Center for receiving stolen property. The court also ordered the boy to perform 100 hours of community work within the limits of his probation.

Four boys, charged with an adult for entering the Westfall High School grounds to steal gasoline, pleaded guilty to the charges and were made probationers with the court for three years and told to perform 100 hours of community work. The boys, age 15, 16 and 17, were from Williamsport, Circleville and New Holland areas.

Twenty-five dollar fines were suspended for an Orient boy, 17 and a Route 2, Williamsport boy, 18. The youth from Orient was charged with consuming an alcoholic beverage and the other boy for purchasing beverages with alcoholic content, both at an Ashville tavern.

Steven Butcher, 22, of Harrisburg, was found guilty of failing to support his son. The court imposed a five year probation and suspended a six month sentence to the county jail.

Release from detention was granted for a Darby boy, 17, who is charged with petit larceny, trespassing, unlawful disposal of trash and violating his previous probation.

A 16-year-old Circleville teen was placed on probation for one year for attempting to take a stereo tape from a local business establishment.

Adult Courses Slated At OU-L

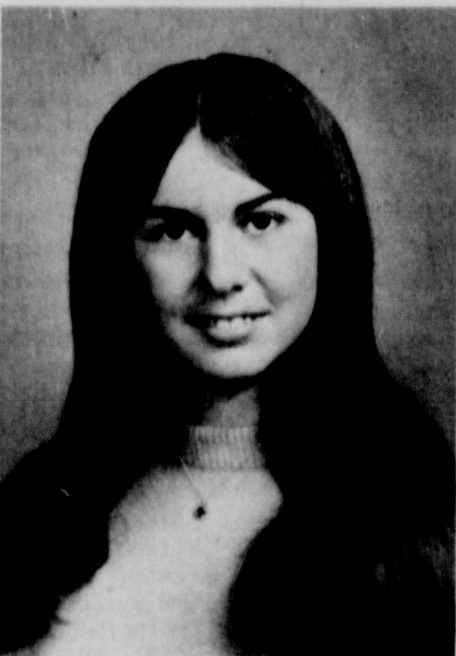

A list of non-credit courses being offered during the spring quarter has been announced by the Office of Continuing Education of Lancaster OU.

Courses included in the schedule are: Blueprint Reading; Shorthand I; Typing III; Real Estate Principles II; Real Estate Seminar; Parent Effectiveness Training; Flower Arrangement Demonstration and Speed Reading.

Most of the classes are scheduled to start during the week of March 26. Brochures and additional information regarding specific courses can be obtained by calling 654-6711, extension 27.

Since enrollment in several courses will be limited, registration should be completed at least five days before the starting date of the course.

Driver Injured As Truck Rolls Off Route 56

Robert M. Short, 43, Route 1, Laurelville, refused treatment for numerous contusions and abrasions to his head and shoulders after he demolished his farm truck 5:18 p.m. Friday on Route 56 west of Shoemaker Road.

According to the accident report compiled by Pickaway County Sheriff's Deputies Bill and Don Thompson, Short was driving southeast on Route 56. His truck apparently skidded off the right side of the road as he applied his brakes in a right curve.

The truck rolled over for 121 feet off the right side before coming to rest.
